State Department Proposes World Atom Control Agency

"Atomic Development Authority" Would Be Set Up under Plan

CABINET OFFICERS RECEIVE PROPOSAL

ADA Would Be Sole Producer of World's Fissionable Materials

By WILLIAM R. SPEAR

WASHINGTON, March 28. (AP)—A plan for an international "Atomic Development Authority" to be the sole producer of the world's fissionable materials and lease them to the nations for science and industry was released tonight by the State department.

It contemplates that over a period of years and as the ADA is established, knowledge now the exclusive possession of the United States will be made international property and plants like those at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Hanford, Wash., will be owned and operated by the international authority—and by none other.

The plan, stating that U-235 and plutonium "can be denatured" so as not to lend themselves "readily" to making atomic bombs, was presented to the Senate Atomic Energy committee Monday by Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson, chairman of the official committee which drafted it.

A scientific authority revealed that the United States actually had tried to make atomic bombs of denatured material and had found it impossible. This authority, asking anonymity, also explained that denatured uranium can be obtained in two days—by producing it in denatured form originally, or by making material suitable for explosives and then treating it.

Domestic Program C n't Wait

The vain attempts to make the bomb, and the discovery of the denaturization, occurred some years ago.

Chairman McMahon (D-Conn), of the Senate Atomic Energy committee, said, meanwhile, that domestic control legislation cannot wait on the international negotiations involved in the ADA plan. He announced the committee will call Dr. J. R. Oppenheimer, and perhaps one or two others of the group which prepared the proposal, for information on how it will affect the domestic program.

The ADA plan has been submitted to cabinet officers and others who will advise President Truman on it.

In releasing the full seventy-eight-page document tonight, Secretary of State Byrnes wrote in a foreword that it "is not intended as a final plan but 'a place to begin, a foundation on which to build,'" in the committee's words.

The plan starts with the premise that "uranium is the only natural substance that can maintain a chain reaction" and "is the key to all foreseeable applications of atomic energy."

Thus it finds "boundaries" to the problem of "building security against catastrophic use of atomic energy" which would not exist if the energy could be developed "from clay or iron or some other common material."

It also notes that thorium, which "cannot maintain a chain reaction" by itself, may be mixed with uranium to establish a chain reaction "to manufacture material which is an atomic explosive and which can also be used for the maintenance of other chain reactions."

ADA Would Own Ore

Therefore it proposes to vest the ownership of all the uranium ore and thorium in the world in the international authority and to make it illegal for anyone other than the ADA to possess it or mine it.

Similarly the ADA would own and operate all the production plants in the world, similar to the one the United States has at Oak Ridge, and it would be illegal for any individual nation to build or run one.

The atomic energy source materials produced in these international plants, however, would be made available to secondary plants in the various countries, which might be state-owned or privately owned as the governments see fit. These

Winant Nomination Is Confirmed by Senate

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — The Senate today unanimously confirmed the nomination of John G. Winant, former ambassador to Britain, as the United States representative on the United Nations' Economic and Social Council.

At the request of Sen. White (R-Me), action was deferred on two other nominations. They are:

W. Averell Harriman, New York, to succeed Winant as ambassador to Great Britain.

Com. James K. Vardaman, Jr., President Truman's naval aide, to the Federal Reserve Board of Governors.

Taft Opposes Giving Wyatt Blanket Authority To Spend $600,000,000

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — While Republican congressmen hammered at President Truman's principal plan for breaking the housing shortage, the president signed legislation today for a $250,000,000 program to provide 100,000 temporary homes for veterans and their families.

At the Senate Banking committee's hearings on the bigger measure, Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) served notice he would never agree to let Wilson Wyatt, housing expediter, have blanket authority to spend $600,000,000 in any way he thinks will stimulate home construction.

Taft made that comment after hearing Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small tell of some prospective expenditures from the fund the administration wants for "premium payments" to increase production of building materials.

Used as 'Last Resort'

Small said payments might be made to compensate a building materials producer for overtime operations, or might also be made to:

"Help an industry build new plants xxx absorb transportation costs xxx induce small operators to increase their production by adding new or more modern equipment" xxx or to help local governments "put in complementary facilities, for example: Docks, sewage systems, access roads, and other facilities."

"You are asking for $600,000,000 and authority to spend it on anything in the world," said Taft. "I can't be for that."

Small said it would be the policy to use the proposed fund "only as a last resort.'

Exactly what spending authority Wyatt does want is something the committee has not yet learned. The House rejected the fund which President Truman called "the very heart" of the legislation. Wyatt has promised to submit a proposed amendment putting it back in, and spell out what he wants.

The bill President Truman signed today is the second 100,000-unit temporary housing program. It calls for remodeling barracks and temporary wartime housing.

It involves, too, movement of temporary housing from wartime industrial centers, if no longer needed, to college towns with a housing shortage because of enrollment of veterans under the GI Bill of Rights.

Allies Adopt German Industry Control Plan

BERLIN, March 28 (AP) — Allied authorities announced today adoption of a plan for the future level of German industry which slashes the beaten nation's economy in half and places emphasis on agriculture and the production of coal and materials to rebuild war smashed cities.

The plan, as outlined by the Allied Control Council, provides for the elimination of all industries in Germany which could be diverted to war making and the cutting back of other industries considered on the fringe of war potential.

Built around the Potsdam declaration of the Big Three, the plan assumes that Germany will be reasonably self-sustaining by 1949.

UNRRA Decides To Continue Its Care of Refugees

Vote Is Unanimous and Ends One of Principal Arguments

By SIGRID ARNE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 28 (AP)—The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration council voted unanimously today to continue its care of 900,000 European refugees from Poland, Russia and Yugoslavia.

The vote brought to a conclusion one of the principal arguments which began at the London UNRRA session. At that meeting Soviet Russia, Poland and Yugoslavia objected to further relief for the refugees on the ground that they were wanted at home for reconstruction work and that some of them were Axis-collaborators.

Considering its major problem—where to find food to feed the world's hungry during the next four months—the conference also heard the United Kingdom urge Soviet Russian and Argentina to contribute from their supplies to UNRRA relief work.

The conference debated the refugee problem amid reports that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was being considered to head any United Nations agency set up to carry on aid to refugees after UNRRA is dissolved.

The debate left open the door for refugees who might want to emigrate to new lands.

U. S. Probes Report Reds Forced Army Transport To Land in Germany

WASHINGTON, March 28. (AP) —Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said today that the secretary of war is investigating a report that Russian fighter planes forced an American army transport plane to land in Russian-occupied Germany.

The senator added that all passengers, including a woman Red Cross worker, were "held incommunicado for four days."

Asserting that "this is not an isolated incident," Sen. Bridges, in a letter to Secretary of War Patterson, asked a "complete report" on the case he cited.

A War department reply to the senator, also made public, promised a "full report" from Secretary Patterson as soon as details are obtained from an inquiry now under way.

Baldwin Backer Challenges Tawes

BALTIMORE, March 28 (AP) — Philip H. Dorsey, a supporter of H. Street Baldwin in the Democratic gubernatorial primary campaign, today challenged a Baldwin opponent, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, "to point to one official act" he had taken from political motives in his capacity as people's counsel to the public service commission.

In what was apparently another reaction to Tawes's speech last night, Baldwin concurred in the comptroller's remarks on the state judiciary.

Meanwhile W. Preston Lane, the third major candidate in the triangular primary, said through his Baltimore campaign manager, James J. Lacy, it was "good to note" that Baldwin favored the construction of a Chesapeake bay crossing.

Dorsey said he had not, "unlike Mr. Tawes' politica. sponsor, Attorney General (William) Curran," declared when he accepted his present office that he was taking "a furlough from politics." He termed Tawes and Curran "synonymous with the team of Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy," and compared Curran to a Tammany politician and Tom Pendergast, former "boss" of Kansas City.

Tawes had criticized what he called partisan political activities by a public commissioner and the people's counsel. He named no names, however. Arthur H. Brice, a commission member, has also announced his support of Baldwin.

Baldwin's statement called for the continued freedom from politics in the selection of candidates for the state bench, saying it would be his "determined purpose as governor" to make non-political selections.

"I shall look primarily to the bar associations for guidance and advice," he said. "I shall certainly never permit partisan or political considerations to enter into my consideration."

Lacy took issue with Baldwin's promise to appoint a commission to report to the 1947 Legislature on the bay crossing, terming such a commission "unnecessary."

TOKYO, Friday, March 29 (AP) — Gen. MacArthur today ordered Japan's government to delay seating thirty newly-appointed members of the House of Peers until his staff could determine whether they were "undesirable personnel."

Government Takes Over Control of Shipment of Soft Coal

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — The government has no plans for seizing the coal mines in event of a strike, President Truman said today.

To assure supplies for urgent uses, however, the government took over control of the shipment and distribution of soft coal as of midnight tonight.

Meanwhile, the Labor department sought to avert the nationwide strike of 400,000 soft coal miners scheduled to begin at midnight Sunday.

Assistant Secretary of Labor John W. Gibson, who helped settle the General Motors Corporation strike, conferred for an hour with the bituminous coal operators. He had had a similar meeting last night with John L. Lewis.

At both meetings, Gibson said, he reviewed the progress of negotiations from the point of view of each side. The meetings, he asserted, were "exploratory" Gibson said that "undoubtedly" he or other officials would hold further conferences with the negotiators but that no definite time for meetings had been set.

To facilitate maximum production of soft coal before Monday the Interstate Commerce Commission suspended the demurrage charges on cars of bituminous coal held on mine or assigned tracks after the expiration of the normal forty-eight hours of free time.

The president was asked at his news conference whether he thought there would be a coal strike.

Mr. Truman said he had no comment, telling reporters that "your guess is as good as mine."

For the first time, they said, the discussion drifted away from Lewis's No. 1 demand—for a health and welfare fund. While they did not get down to talking about wages and hours, they did consider "three or four other demands," a representative of the producers said.

Lewis was in the meeting only about two hours. An associate said he was busy on mail and other union matters.

Reports reaching the producers here were that some miners already were starting on "vacation."

U. S. Will Prosecute Soviet Naval Officer In Regular Manner

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Attorney General Clark said today espionage charges against Lt. Nicolai Gregorovich Redin, a Soviet naval officer held at Portland, Ore., will be prosecuted in the regular manner and as quickly as possible.

He is charged with inducing another person to seek information on an American destroyer tender for the benefit of a foreign power.

Clark issued this statement in response to inquiries:

"The case of the United States government against Lt. Nicolai Gregorovich Redin will be prosecuted in the regular manner and I will seek to have it disposed of as quickly as possible. The department views the case as it does all criminal cases, and the question of bail is in the hands of the court."

Truman Creates Council of Top Army, Navy Men

Elder Statesmen's Organization for National Defense Is Set Up

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — President Truman today set up an unprecedented elder statesmen's organization for national defense, as he called it, composed of the ten top wartime generals and admirals.

He nominated them to hold permanently their high wartime rank under a new law permitting them to draw full pay and allowances upon retirement. He told reporters at the same time that this creates for the president an elder statesmen's organization for defense, but gave no indication as to when or how it might function.

Never before, the president noted, has this nation made financial provision for its retired military leaders which enables them to continue public service. He indicated to his news conference that he definitely plans to use them.

The chief executive announced his so-called elder statesmen's organization for defense at the outset of his conference and said it would serve directly under him.

He acted under a bill just passed by Congress providing permanent five-star rank for the four generals and four admirals who held that temporary rank during the war, and permanent four-star rank for Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift and Adm. Russell R. Waesche, commanding of the marine corps and coast guard. He immediately sent their nominations to the Senate for confirmation.

The purpose of the measure was to provide to these officers for life upon their retirement the full pay and allowances they received in active service. There was no discussion in Congress of their continuing in public service.

But Mr. Truman observed that the financial provision means that they will not have to go into the advertising business or go to work for any airplane companies, as he put it, to make a living.

Five of the ten already have retired but only two are serving in any official capacity at present. They

Three Questions May Be Put To Both Moscow and Tehran

Iran Army Is Told Not To Enter Area Vacated by Soviet

Order Halts General Staff Plans for Reoccupying Garrisons

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN

TEHRAN, March 28 (AP) — An Iranian general staff officer declared today that the government had ordered the army not to re-enter territory being evacuated by the Russians, thus calling a halt to general staff plans for re-occupying Iran's northern garrisons.

(The Tehran dispatch gave no indication why such an order was issued. The Moscow radio, in announcing last Friday that Red army troops were being withdrawn from Iran, said that the evacuation would be concluded "within five or six weeks is nothing unforeseen happened.")

The officer said the army had received no reports yet that the Russian troops were actually leaving Iran. He also expressed anxiety about the Iranian garrison at Sardasht, saying communications with that western outpost were interrupted with renewed attacks by Kurdish tribesmen after the Noruz (new year) intermission.

The officer added that the Red army had not yet completed evacuation of Karaj and Garmsar, the nearest Russian post northwest and southeast of Tehran.

Official British sources said they were advised that Russian evacuation was continuing at Kazvin, Takistan and Zenjan, all northwest of Tehran. This was the first mention of Russian movement from Zenijan, near which the Zolagaris and Allied tribes friendly to the Iranian government have held out successfully against attempts by Azerbaijan separatists to penetrate the hinterlands west of the Tabriz-Tehran road.

Meanwhile official government sources in Tehran remain silent regarding Russia's action at the Security council in New York yesterday. Premier Ahmed Qavam said he was "too busy" to see newsmen. Prince Mozzafar Firouz, director of propaganda, said there was "no change of Iran's status in the Russian-Iranian case."

(In London, a British foreign office spokesman said his government considered the authority of the United Nations placed "in jeopardy" as the result of Russia's walking out of yesterday's council meeting.)

Truman Sees No Reason For Food Rationing

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — President Truman said today he saw no reason for a resumption of rationing in this country as a result of world food shortages.

He told a news conference that he thought the current emergency would be over before steps could be taken to reimpose necessary controls.

Mr. Truman was asked about a recommendation of UNRRA's food sub-committee that all the United Nations ration food.

The reinstitution of food rationing probably would take longer than the immediate emergency will last, he added.

Peron Is Winner

BUENOS AIRES, March 28 (AP)—Col. Juan Peron clinched the presidency of Argentina today when ballot counting in the federal capital gave him a majority and boosted his electoral vote total to 216 — twenty-seven votes over the 189 required for victory.

Soviet Delegate Decides at Last Moment Not To Attend Session

PUBLIC MEETING TO BE HELD AT 3 P. M. TODAY

"Considerable Area of Agreement" on Procedure Is Announced

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) —The United Nations Security Council was reported authoritatively today to be determined to go ahead with the Iranian case despite the boycott by the Russian delegate, who for the second straight day absented himself from a council meeting.

At the close of the council's first executive session in the United States, the council officially announced that the ten delegates participating had found a "considerable area of agreement" for dealing with the Iranian case.

Informed sources, who would not be otherwise identified, later said that the council members informally decided to continue with the case. Further, it was said they may ask for reports from both Moscow and Tehran on these three major, unanswered questions:

1. Why are Russian assurances that their troops are being removed from Iran, barring unforseen developments, not satisfactory to the Iranian government?

2. What negotiations are now going on between Russia and Iran?

3. Is the removal of Red army forces conditional upon these negotiations?

The council decided to resume open sessions tomorrow at its interim headquarters at Hunter college, at which, it was said, the Iranian representative, Hussein Ala, will be asked questions submitted by the Polish delegate, Oscar Lange, and any other questions from council members.

Reds May Continue Boycott

Then, it was added, the Iranian would withdraw from the table and the ten delegates would decide what to do next.

The council met without the Russian delegate, who first said he would attend the closed meeting, then added to the confusion by remaining away from it.

Further, the Russian delegate, Ambassador Andrei A. Gromyko, said at 7:40 p. m. EST—after the council session was over—that he did not know whether he would attend tomorrow's open meeting of the council at Hunter college.

While the Russians remained away from the Security council session, they took part in other activities of the council, having representatives at the council's committee of experts on procedure and at the meeting of the military staff committee. They insist they have not pulled out of the United Nations but that they will not discuss the Iranian issue.

A United Nations announcement issued shortly after the closed session said:

"Members of the Security council held an executive meeting at 4 p. m. this afternoon at United Nations offices at 610 Fifth avenue to discuss informally the further procedure to be followed in dealing with the Iranian appeal which is on its agenda.

"Various alternative suggestions for further procedure were considered, and as a result of the discussion a considerable area of agreement was found.

"Representatives of all the members of the Security council, except the Soviet Union, attended the meeting, which ended at 6:40 p. m.

GI Cartoonist Says Present Army System Is Outdated and Outmoded

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Bill Mauldin, famed GI cartoonist, said today that the army must "get rid of the theory that an officer breathes special air and is a gentleman while the enlisted man is not."

Mauldin said that the present army system was set up "centuries ago" in other countries and now is outdated and outmoded.

The 24-year old cartoonist, whose ill-fitting clothes make him resemble one of his own cartoon characters, made these statements before a board set up by the War department to study officer enlisted men relationships.

The meeting was closed to reporters but Mauldin explained his stand later to newsmen.

Meantime, Secretary of the Navy Forrestal acted to get some civilian advice on naval practices "disapproved by the public."

He announced the creation of a committee of forty or more civilians to "work with the navy on its post-war program." The names of the members will be announced later.

The setup is different from the board of former officers and enlisted men headed by Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle which is conducting the hearing on complaints against the army but its purpose apparently is somewhat similar, at least in part.

Mauldin, in talking to reporters, said service newspapers should be run "for the soldier, and not for the War department." He said that in this way soldiers could let off steam and consequently improve their own morale as well as the efficiency of the service.

He gave this example of what he was talking about.

"Obviously a soldier can't vote and decide who should be his commanding officer, but if his officer is inefficient, the soldier ought to be able to call attention to it." He said they can do this in an army newspaper.

Mauldin said that Gens. Eisenhower and Bradley had proved that a war could be fought in which the newspapers were allowed to function without any interference from the higher-ups.

On the other hand, he said, newspapers under Gen. MacArthur's command were not as free to print what they please.

Generals Warn Draftees Will Be Kept Indefinitely if Act Expires

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—A pair of major generals testified today that unless the draft act is extended, the Congress, and the country face these alternatives:

1. Retention, or indefinite service, of thousands of men already drafted;

2. Serious manpower shortages in the army, and possibly the navy and marines at a time when Germany and Japan must be policed and international peace is not determined;

3. Turning the "best army in the world into a second rate outfit."

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, wartime director of Selective Service, and Maj. Gen. Willard S. Paul, army chief of personnel, offered this testimony to the Senate Military Affairs committee.

Both insisted, despite sharp questions and comments from opposing senators, that the only way the United States can hope to fulfill its immediate international obligations is to extend the draft act that expires May 15.

Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah), publicly opposed to extension of the wartime draft, contended that voluntary enlistments recently had "broken all records' and would provide all men needed by the armed services.

Gen. Hershey replied:

"When you get 200,000 or 300,000 men who enlist a day or two before inductions you can call them volunteers if you want to."

The general said the army needs 50,000 men monthly for the next year and will get only one fifth of that number or 10,000 monthly if the draft act expires.

Thomas suggested Hershey wanted to use the draft as a "hammer to pound a boy into the service," and said that if the "army is so unpopular" the country "better find it out now."

Union Would Arbitrate Vepco Wage Question

RICHMOND, Va., March 28. (AP)—A union offer to arbitrate the deadlocked wage issue and thus avert the threatened strike on April 1 of Virginia Electric and Power Company employes came tonight after Gov. Tuck had announced a "state of emergency" preliminary to state seizure of Vepco properties.

The union order to arbitrate the wage question was announced tonight by J. C. McIntosh, international representative of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL), who said the union negotiating committee had agreed to submit the dispute to an impartial arbiter—a step which would postpone any strike for at least thirty days. It was the first definite offer to arbitrate the wage issue.

Truman Says U. S. Has No Plans for Seizing Mines

U. S. Probes Report Reds Forced Army Transport To Land in Germany

WASHINGTON, March 28. (AP) —Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said today that the secretary of war is investigating a report that Russian fighter planes forced an American army transport plane to land in Russian-occupied Germany.

The senator added that all passengers, including a woman Red Cross worker, were "held incommunicado for four days."

Asserting that "this is not an isolated incident," Sen. Bridges, in a letter to Secretary of War Patterson, asked a "complete report" on the case he cited.

A War department reply to the senator, also made public, promised a "full report" from Secretary Patterson as soon as details are obtained from an inquiry now under way.

Government Takes Over Control of Shipment of Soft Coal

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — The government has no plans for seizing the coal mines in event of a strike, President Truman said today.

To assure supplies for urgent uses, however, the government took over control of the shipment and distribution of soft coal as of midnight tonight.

Meanwhile, the Labor department sought to avert the nationwide strike of 400,000 soft coal miners scheduled to begin at midnight Sunday.

Assistant Secretary of Labor John W. Gibson, who helped settle the General Motors Corporation strike, conferred for an hour with the bituminous coal operators. He had had a similar meeting last night with John L. Lewis.

At both meetings, Gibson said, he reviewed the progress of negotiations from the point of view of each side. The meetings, he asserted, were "exploratory." Gibson said that "undoubtedly" he or other officials would hold further conferences with the negotiators but that no definite time for meetings had been set.

To facilitate maximum production of soft coal before Monday the Interstate Commerce Commission suspended the demurrage charges on cars of bituminous coal held on mine or assigned tracks after the expiration of the normal forty-eight hours of free time.

The president was asked at his news conference whether he thought there would be a coal strike.

Mr. Truman said he had no comment, telling reporters that "your guess is as good as mine."

For the first time, they said, the discussion drifted away from Lewis's No. 1 demand—for a health and welfare fund. While they did not get down to talking about wages and hours, they did consider "three or four other demands," a representative of the producers said.

Lewis was in the meeting only about two hours. An associate said he was busy on mail and other union matters.

Reports reaching the producers here were that some miners already were starting on "vacation."

Baldwin Backer Challenges Tawes

BALTIMORE, March 28 (AP)—Philip H. Dorsey, a supporter of H. Street Baldwin in the Democratic gubernatorial primary campaign, today challenged a Baldwin opponent, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, "to point to one official act" he had taken from political motives in his capacity as people's counsel to the public service commission.

In what was apparently another reaction to Tawes's speech last night, Baldwin concurred in the comptroller's remarks on the state judiciary.

Meanwhile W. Preston Lane, the third major candidate in the triangular primary, said through his Baltimore campaign manager, James J. Lacy, it was "good to note" that Baldwin favored the construction of a Chesapeake bay crossing.

Dorsey said he had not, "unlike Mr. Tawes' political sponsor, Attorney General (William) Curran," declared when he accepted his present office that he was taking "a furlough from politics." He termed Tawes and Curran "synonymous with the team of Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy," and compared Curran to a Tammany politician and Tom Pendergast, former "boss" of Kansas City.

Tawes had criticized what he called partisan political activities by a public commissioner and the people's counsel. He named no names, however. Arthur H. Brice, a commission member, has also announced his support of Baldwin.

Baldwin's statement called for the continued freedom from politics in the selection of candidates for the state bench, saying it would be his "determined purpose as governor" to make non-political selections.

"I shall look primarily to the bar associations for guidance and advice," he said. "I shall certainly never permit partisan or political considerations to enter into my consideration."

Lacy took issue with Baldwin's promise to appoint a commission to report to the 1947 Legislature on the bay crossing, terming such a commission "unnecessary."

Need MacArthur Okay

TOKYO, Friday, March 29 (AP) — Gen. MacArthur today ordered Japan's government to delay seating thirty newly-appointed members of the House of Peers until his staff could determine whether they were "undesirable personnel."

Truman Creates Council of Top Army, Navy Men

Elder Statesmen's Organization for National Defense Is Set Up

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — President Truman today set up an unprecedented elder statesmen's organization for national defense, as he called it, composed of the ten top wartime generals and admirals.

He nominated them to hold permanently their high wartime rank under a new law permitting them to draw full pay and allowances upon retirement. He told reporters at the same time that this creates for the president an elder statesmen's organization for defense, but gave no indication as to when or how it might function.

Never before, the president noted, has this nation made financial provision for its retired military leaders which enables them to continue public service. He indicated to his news conference that he definitely plans to use them.

The chief executive announced his so-called elder statesmen's organization for defense at the outset of his conference and said it would serve directly under him.

He acted under a bill just passed by Congress providing permanent five-star rank for the four generals and four admirals who held that temporary rank during the war, and permanent four-star rank for Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift and Adm. Russell R. Waesche, commanding of the marine corps and coast guard. He immediately sent their nominations to the Senate for confirmation.

The purpose of the measure was to provide to these officers for life upon their retirement the full pay and allowances they received in active service. There was no discussion in Congress of their continuing in public service.

But Mr. Truman observed that the financial provision means that they will not have to go into the advertising business or go to work for any airplane companies, as he put it, to make a living.

Five of the ten already have retired but only two are serving in any official capacity at present. They

U. S. Will Prosecute Soviet Naval Officer In Regular Manner

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Attorney General Clark said today espionage charges against Lt. Nicolai Gregorovich Redin, a Soviet naval officer held at Portland, Ore., will be prosecuted in the regular manner and as quickly as possible.

He is charged with inducing another person to seek information on an American destroyer tender for the benefit of a foreign power.

Clark issued this statement in response to inquiries:

"The case of the United States government against Lt. Nicolai Gregorovich Redin will be prosecuted in the regular manner and I will seek to have it disposed of as quickly as possible. The department views the case as it does all criminal cases, and the question of bail is in the hands of the court."

Three Questions May Be Put To Both Moscow and Tehran

Iran Army Is Told Not To Enter Area Vacated by Soviet

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN

TEHRAN, March 28 (AP) — An Iranian general staff officer declared today that the government had ordered the army not to re-enter territory being evacuated by the Russians, thus calling a halt to general staff plans for re-occupying Iran's northern garrisons.

(The Tehran dispatch gave no indication why such an order was issued. The Moscow radio, in announcing last Friday that Red army troops were being withdrawn from Iran, said that the evacuation would be concluded "within five or six weeks is nothing unforeseen happened.")

The officer said the army had received no reports yet that the Russian troops were actually leaving Iran. He also expressed anxiety about the Iranian garrison at Sardasht, saying communications with that western outpost were interrupted with renewed attacks by Kurdish tribesmen after the Noruz (new year) intermission.

The officer added that the Red army had not yet completed evacuation of Karaj and Garmsar, the nearest Russian post northwest and southeast of Tehran.

Official British sources said they were advised that Russian evacuation was continuing at Kazvin, Takistan and Zenjan, all northwest of Tehran. This was the first mention of Russian movement from Zenijan, near which the Zolagaris and Allied tribes friendly to the Iranian government have held out successfully against attempts by Azerbaijan separatists to penetrate the hinterlands west of the Tabriz-Tehran road.

Meanwhile official government sources in Tehran remain silent regarding Russia's action at the Security council in New York yesterday. Premier Ahmed Qavam said he was "too busy" to see newsmen. Prince Mozzafar Firouz, director of propaganda, said there was "no change of Iran's status in the Russian-Iranian case."

(In London, a British foreign office spokesman said his government considered the authority of the United Nations placed "in jeopardy" as the result of Russia's walking out of yesterday's council meeting.)

Truman Sees No Reason For Food Rationing

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — President Truman said today he saw no reason for a resumption of rationing in this country as a result of world food shortages.

He told a news conference that he thought the current emergency would be over before steps could be taken to reimpose necessary controls.

Mr. Truman was asked about a recommendation of UNRRA's food sub-committee that all the United Nations ration food.

The reinstitution of food rationing probably would take longer than the immediate emergency will last, he added.

Peron Is Winner

BUENOS AIRES, March 28 (AP)—Col. Juan Peron clinched the presidency of Argentina today when ballot counting in the federal capital gave him a majority and boosted his electoral vote total to 216 — twenty-seven votes over the 189 required for victory.

Soviet Delegate Decides at Last Moment Not To Attend Session

"Considerable Area of Agreement" on Procedure Is Announced

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) —The United Nations Security Council was reported authoritatively today to be determined to go ahead with the Iranian case despite the boycott by the Russian delegate, who for the second straight day absented himself from a council meeting.

At the close of the council's first executive session in the United States, the council officially announced that the ten delegates participating had found a "considerable area of agreement" for dealing with the Iranian case.

Informed sources, who would not be otherwise identified, later said that the council members informally decided to continue with the case. Further, it was said they may ask for reports from both Moscow and Tehran on these three major, unanswered questions:

1. Why are Russian assurances that their troops are being removed from Iran, barring unforseen developments, not satisfactory to the Iranian government?

2. What negotiations are now going on between Russia and Iran?

3. Is the removal of Red army forces conditional upon these negotiations?

The council decided to resume open sessions tomorrow at its interim headquarters at Hunter college, at which, it was said, the Iranian representative, Hussein Ala, will be asked questions submitted by the Polish delegate Oscar Lange, and any other questions from council members.

Reds May Continue Boycott

Then, it was added, the Iranian would withdraw from the table and the ten delegates would decide what to do next.

The council met without the Russian delegate, who first said he would attend the closed meeting, then added to the confusion by remaining away from it.

Further, the Russian delegate, Ambassador Andrei A. Gromyko, said at 7:40 p. m. EST—after the council session was over—that he did not know whether he would attend tomorrow's open meeting of the council at Hunter college.

While the Russians remained away from the Security council session, they took part in other activities of the council, having representatives at the council's committee of experts on procedure and at the meeting of the military staff committee. They insist they have not pulled out of the United Nations but that they will not discuss the Iranian issue.

A United Nations announcement issued shortly after the closed session said:

"Members of the Security council held an executive meeting at 4 p. m. this afternoon at United Nations offices at 610 Fifth avenue to discuss informally the further procedure to be followed in dealing with the Iranian appeal which is on its agenda.

"Various alternative suggestions for further procedure were considered, and as a result of the discussion a considerable area of agreement was found.

"Representatives of all the members of the Security council, except the Soviet Union, attended the meeting, which ended at 6:40 p. m.

GI Cartoonist Says Present Army System Is Outdated and Outmoded

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Bill Mauldin, famed GI cartoonist, said today that the army must "get rid of the theory that an officer breathes special air and is a gentleman while the enlisted man is not."

Mauldin said that the present army system was set up "centuries ago" in other countries and now is outdated and outmoded.

The 24-year old cartoonist, whose ill-fitting clothes make him resemble one of his own cartoon characters, made these statements before a board set up by the War department to study officer enlisted men relationships.

The meeting was closed to reporters but Mauldin explained his stand later to newsmen.

He announced the creation of a committee of forty or more civilians to "work with the navy on its post-war program." The names of the members will be announced later.

The setup is different from the board of former officers and enlisted men headed by Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle which is conducting the hearing on complaints against the army but its purpose apparently is somewhat similar, at least in part.

Mauldin, in talking to reporters, said service newspapers should be run "for the soldier, and not for the War department." He said that in this way soldiers could let off steam and consequently improve their own morale as well as the efficiency of the service.

He gave this example of what he was talking about.

"Obviously a soldier can't vote and decide who should be his commanding officer, but if his officer is inefficient, the soldier ought to be able to call attention to it." He said they can do this in an army newspaper.

Mauldin said that Gens. Eisenhower and Bradley had proved that a war could be fought in which the newspapers were allowed to function without any interference from the higher-ups.

On the other hand, he said, newspapers under Gen. MacArthur's command were not as free to print what they please.

Winant Nomination Is Confirmed by Senate

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — The Senate today unanimously confirmed the nomination of John G. Winant, former ambassador to Britain, as the United States representative on the United Nations' Economic and Social Council.

At the request of Sen. White (R-Me), action was deferred on two other nominations. They are:

W. Averell Harriman, New York, to succeed Winant as ambassador to Great Britain.

Com. James K. Vardaman, Jr., President Truman's naval aide, to the Federal Reserve Board of Governors.

Generals Warn Draftees Will Be Kept Indefinitely if Act Expires

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—A pair of major generals testified today that unless the draft act is extended, the Congress, and the country face these alternatives:

1. Retention, or indefinite service, of thousands of men already drafted;

2. Serious manpower shortages in the army, and possibly the navy and marines at a time when Germany and Japan must be policed and international peace is not determined;

3. Turning the "best army in the world into a second rate outfit."

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, wartime director of Selective Service, and Maj. Gen. Willard S. Paul, army chief of personnel, offered this testimony to the Senate Military Affairs committee.

Both insisted, despite sharp questions and comments from opposing senators, that the only way the United States can hope to fulfill its immediate international obligations is to extend the draft act that expires May 15.

Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah), publicly opposed to extension of the wartime draft, contended that voluntary enlistments recently had "broken all records' and would provide all men needed by the armed services.

Gen. Hershey replied:

"When you get 200,000 or 300,000 men who enlist a day or two before inductions you can call them volunteers if you want to."

The general said the army needs 50,000 men monthly for the next year and will get only one fifth of that number or 10,000 monthly if the draft act expires.

Thomas suggested Hershey wanted to use the draft as a "hammer to pound a boy into the service," and said that if the "army is so unpopular" the country "better find it out now."

Union Would Arbitrate Vepco Wage Question

RICHMOND, Va., March 28. (AP)—A union offer to arbitrate the deadlocked wage issue and thus avert the threatened strike on April 1 of Virginia Electric and Power Company employes came tonight after Gov. Tuck had announced a "state of emergency" preliminary to state seizure of Vepco properties.

The union order to arbitrate the wage question was announced tonight by J. C. McIntosh, international representative of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL), who said the union negotiating committee had agreed to submit the dispute to an impartial arbiter—a step which would postpone any strike for at least thirty days. It was the first definite offer to arbitrate the wage issue.

Payments by Check Here Show Increase

Total check payments through local commercial banks for 1946, as compiled by the Federal Reserve Board, are 147 per cent ahead of the pre-war year of 1939 and 25.6 per cent ahead of 1945, it was reported in The American Banker national daily banking newspaper published in New York City.

The check payments which are technically known as "debits", are regarded as an important index of business activity since they include the sum of all checks drawn by individuals and corporations on local Federal Reserve member banks. The February check payments in Cumberland aggregated $15,902,000, making total debits for the first two months of 1946 $34,136,000, the Federal Reserve Board figures show.

Comparative 1946 percentage figures for the other cities in the United States as computed by The American Banker show the entire country running 172 per cent ahead of 1939 and 6.5 per cent ahead of 1945. Check payments for the whole country aggregated $74 billion in February making their total $163 billion for the first two months of 1946.

Cumberland debits are up more than in any of the other leading Maryland cities as compared to last year. Baltimore advanced to 3.6 per cent, Frederick 13.8 per cent, and Hagerstown 24 per cent.

Increases noted over last year for some other nearby places are: Altoona, Pa. 36.1 per cent; Johnstown, Pa., 9.3 per cent; Clarksburg, W. Va., 29.6 per cent; Wheeling, W. Va., 16.2 per cent, and Parkersburg, W. Va., .5 per cent.

Best 1946 gains in the nation are reported by Reno, Nevada, which is 387 per cent ahead of 1939 and by Bakersfield, Calif., which is 76.7 per cent ahead of 1945.

Payments by Check Here Show Increase

Total check payments through local commercial banks for 1946, as compiled by the Federal Reserve Board, are 147 per cent ahead of the pre-war year of 1939 and 25.6 per cent ahead of 1945, it was reported in The American Banker national daily banking newspaper published in New York City.

The check payments which are technically known as "debits", are regarded as an important index of business activity since they include the sum of all checks drawn by individuals and corporations on local Federal Reserve member banks. The February check payments in Cumberland aggregated $15,902,000, making total debits for the first two months of 1946 $34,136,000, the Federal Reserve Board figures show.

Comparative 1946 percentage figures for the other cities in the United States as computed by The American Banker show the entire country running 172 per cent ahead of 1939 and 6.5 per cent ahead of 1945. Check payments for the whole country aggregated $74 billion in February making their total $163 billion for the first two months of 1946.

Cumberland debits are up more than in any of the other leading Maryland cities as compared to last year. Baltimore advanced to 3.6 per cent, Frederick 13.8 per cent, and Hagerstown 24 per cent.

Increases noted over last year for some other nearby places are: Altoona, Pa. 36.1 per cent; Johnstown, Pa., 9.3 per cent; Clarksburg, W. Va., 29.6 per cent; Wheeling, W. Va., 16.2 per cent, and Parkersburg, W. Va., .5 per cent.

Best 1946 gains in the nation are reported by Reno, Nevada, which is 387 per cent ahead of 1939 and by Bakersfield, Calif., which is 76.7 per cent ahead of 1945.

McKeldin's Prediction Is Amply Substantiated

BITTER EDITORIALS, filled with recriminations, now appearing in various newspapers in the eastern part of the state that are supporting different candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination quite substantiate the declaration made here by Mayor McKendin, of Baltimore, that an irreconcilable fight is in progress on the Democratic side of the Maryland political fence giving indications that "this is the year" for a sweeping change. Judging from the tone of the utterances thus far in advance of the primary, the mayor's prediction that they are going to have "one awful fight," has already been amply supported. They are, in fact, divided as they have never before been divided.

The situation behooves Republicans of the state to take due advantage of their own chances, as the mayor suggested, since the Democratic squabbling will undoubtedly alienate many disgruntled and dissatisfied members of that party, who can be expected to switch over into the Republican camp for support of one or more of its candidates. But in doing so, they must look to the necessity of party unity and harmony among themselves and, as Chairman Galen L. Tait has declared, put their best foot forward by nominating candidates of ability, character, sobriety and vote-getting talents.

As the state chairman has declared, "well-chosen and strong candidates, aided by party zeal and organization—outweighing that of 1942—helped by opposition doubt and dissension, supported by the undeniable Republican trend based on accumulated complaints, will go very far in assuring county, city, state and federal success in 1946, this year of political regeneration."

The chances for Republican success are bright not only in the state but nationally, as Mayor McKeldin said, particularly in view of the unsettled international situation to which Washington administration policy, or lack of policy, has contributed so materially. And added to that is the widespread and pronounced dissatisfaction among the people over the fumbling and blundering that has hamstrung domestic progress in the critical postwar period.

Russia Still Intransigent

RETIREMENT of the Russian delegate, Andrei A. Gromyko, from the meeting of the United Nations Organization Security Council because Russia lost its fight to defer consideration of the Iranian question, was like that of a petulant, spoiled child who just won't play unless the game is to his own liking. At this writing, it was not known what the future course of the Russian delegate would be with regard to active participation in the council sessions, but it had been pointed out that his retirement was not a withdrawal on the part of his government.

The situation has been muddled by the forthright declaration of the Iranian delegate, Hussein Ala, that no agreement "secret or otherwise" had ben effected between his country and Russia, which flatly contradicts what had previously been stated by the Russians and hopefully acepted as factual in this country.

Gromyko has maintained in his battle against consideration of the question that Russia and Iran had reached an understanding and that Russian troops would be withdrawn in five or six weeks unless "unforseen circumstances" arose. But Ala contended that Iran's demand for withdrawal of Soviet troops had been refused and that it had been informed that the Soviet intended to keep troops in some parts of the country. Also, Ala said, a proposed Russian agreement to rescind demands for oil concessions was offered on the condition that Iran agree to set up an Iran-Russian oil company with Russia holding fifty-one per cent of the stock, which, of course, would give control to Russia. Apparently, this was rejected, although Ala's account was not clear as to that because of a request that the question be confined to that of postponement.

Here is a case wherein oil does not seem to calm the troubled waters. What is to be done is perplexing and confounds Americans who have been hoping that Russia had begun to feel the weight of world public opinion and would be more reasonable than it has hitherto. It is, as Ala declared, an "explosive" situation. It can only be hoped that reason, calm heads and the necessity for world peace will prevent an actual explosion.

Nylons for Mexico As a Campaign Item

WHILE anxious women stand in long lines leading eventually to front doors of hosiery shops and department stores in every city in the land, there come a news dispatch that thousands of these scarce and ineffably precious things are being shipped to Mexico. A total of at least 648,000 in two weeks, the story said. All that—and nylons, too!

One hesitates to contemplate what must have been said in the hosiery lines when that story came in. Plenty, no doubt.

American women, by and large—no pun intended—are for the Good Neighbor policy, but what woman is going to let her neighbor have her hose? Here the little woman is likely to put her foot (devoid of stocking) down. And who will blame her? Surely no one, except perhaps those working girls who complain they do not have time to spend in lines and thus cannot buy what hosiery is offered to the gasping, grasping public.

Here is something for those adventurous men who now are announcing their candidacies for public office to think about. "A pair of nylons on every towel rack," or something like that, might make a campaign slogan that would sweep the country. The empty stocking drawer has replaced the full dinner pail as a campaign issue.

And who dares ignore the wrath of the stockingless woman?

Magic in Medicine Has Limits, Too

IN THE FAIRY TALES there was always a strict limit to the power of the magic rings and robes which the characters put on. If they were used too greedily or too frequently, the magic powers disappeared.

It now is asserted that much the same thing is true of two of the new drugs of almost magical power to cure disease, penicillin and streptomycin.

According to Dr. Hans Molitor, of the Merck Institute of Therapeutic Research, the two drugs may become ineffective as remedies within the next five or ten years as a result of their popularity and widespread use. The trouble seems to be that the germs against which they are most effective now are able to build up resistance to them.

In patients with pneumonia, streptococcus infections and some other ailments, the antibiotics, as these drugs are called, have produced some miraculous cures. But physicians are discovering that penicillin will not work as well and sometimes it will not work at all with patients who have taken the same drug previously.

As far as the public is concerned, the lesson of this seems to be that it is poor judgment to use the antibiotics for relatively minor infections which could be cured in some other way. There is, apparently, a definite danger of wearing the magic out so that penicillin will not be effective in case of real need.

Perhaps the research scientists will be able to find a way to get around this difficulty. But, in the meantime, it would be a good idea to put the use and distribution of these drugs under stricter medical control and it would certainly be unwise to use them except on a physician's prescription.

Fleecing of Veterans Deserves Vigorous Probe

IT IS ENCOURAGING to hear that the attorney general of the United States is conducting an investigation aimed at halting the fleecing of veterans.

Attorney General Tom Clark said that reports are being received from many parts of the country that small loan firms are advancing money to veterans at usurious rates. He said that there are indications that these lenders are loaning money at unlawful rates on the strength of mustering-out pay and unemployment insurance. The Federal Bureau of Investigation is making a nationwide check, he asserted.

The attorney general also said there have been reports that certain real estate agents are charging veterans who are buying homes sums in excess of the purchase price shown in the papers.

United States attorneys, he said, have been asked to co-operate with state and local officials to protest the service personnel.

It is to be hoped that these inquiries will be pushed with vigor and that every effort will be made to halt the unfair practices. Fleecing veterans is a despicable enterprise. It constitutes a shameful way of treating men who fought for their country.

Housecleaning is under way now, but, according to Mayor McKeldin, there is to be another and bigger job of it in the fall because in spite of the fact that summer does not bring the dirt that winter does, our Democratic friends are going to supply a lot and the fall job will be really something—both at Annapolis and at Washington, but there is some consolation in the fact that it can be done with the ballot instead of with mop and broom.

Any of us can make his wishes come true, if he realizes that wishes are the goals and that work is the way that gives us the horses on which we can safely ride. Any other way is futile and leads to frustration.

NEAR TO THINGS

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

We are always near to things, both important and unimportant, but in this relation often the simplest things are as important as the big things. It's how each fits into the pattern of our lives. We are, of course, influenced most by the near, familiar things, whatever they may be.

The friend, or human acquaintance, of whom we see the most, and with whom we have the most intimate relationship, unconsciously influences us more than we suspect. We are, in fact, a part of the very work of that one whose service is rendered to us. We are, indeed, a part of the thoughts to which we listen, the moment that they meet our own in a harmonious blending.

We are akin to greatness, as John Drinkwater suggested in his fine play "Abraham Lincoln," through the Chronicler, the moment that we appreciate greatness. Those elements that fashion greatness, to a greater or lesser degree, are to be found in us all. We rise to them, as they are magnified before our spiritual vision.

"Virtue," said Confucius, "does not remain as an abandoned orphan; it must of necessity have neighbors." We seek out and wish to be near those things and those human beings that meet us most on common ground. The naturalist seeks the wild, and all its fascinating, endless attractions, and he is never far from any of them. Likewise, we in our daily lives seek out the ideas, the books, the companions that most nearly fit us on intimate terms.

The lover of books is never so happy as when alone with his favorites. And so the lover of human beings is never so happy as when engaged in intimate service to them. We are nearest to God when we are nearest to the things which He created for our profit and enjoyment. Truth, beauty, worth—cling! That is why it is so important to get near to them, and stay there.

Those who now hate most are those who were in it, experiencing all its filth, degradation, futility, and ingloriousness. Had the great nations of the world stayed near to that righteousnes that "exalteth a nation," the world would not now lie tragically wounded, filled with fear, and so deadened in spirit.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

FDR Thought Mail Order Catalog Would Win Russians Over, Pearson Discloses

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Mar. 28.—Not long before he died, Franklin Roosevelt was talking to his friend Morris Ernst, author of "The First Freedom," about the problem of penetrating the iron curtain around Russia.

Ernst had told Roosevelt how an OWI illustrated magazine, "America," finally had been permitted to enter Russia in limited quantities. Although given away by the United States Government, the magazines were in such demand that the Russians later resold them for large sums of money.

One article in the magazine described the life of George Washington Carver, famous negro scientist, and the high recognition he was given in the United States. Ernst told FDR that this article was the first evidence the Russians had to disprove the communist propaganda that all negroes were beaten or lynched in the United States. Ernst also urged the importance of getting more books and radio broadcasts inside Russia in order to ensure permanent American - Soviet friendship.

Roosevelt agreed and added:

"When the right time comes, there is just one book which will win over the Russian people."

"What is that?" asked Ernest.

"The Sears Roebuck csatalogue."

Stalin's Opening

Most important point now being watched by diplomats is whether Jimmy Byrnes, who has done a good job regarding Russia, will now take advantage of Stalin's latest opening. Stalin's statement reaffirming his faith in the United Nations and the friendship of peoples is considered the best break United States-USSR relations have had in months—if Secretary Byrnes vigorously follows it up.

For, hitherto, we have never been able to penetrate the iron curtain to tell the Russian people what we really are, rather than what the Soviet government says we are. Stalin has now given an opportunity for Byrnes to step in and say that he takes Stalin at his word and wants to exchange students, professors, motion pictures, radio broadcasts, books and magazines.

Reason for Iron Curtain

Diplomatic reports from Moscow indicate that the iron curtain around Russia is motivated by one compelling fact: Soviet leaders do not want the Russian people to realize that the capitalist world may be equal or better than communism. For years the Russian people have been sold the idea that their system is far superior to anything else; that capitalist nations are enslaved.

That is why fraternization between Russian and American troops was discouraged. That is why Russians so avidly buy up wrist watches and other baubles on the Berlin black market. That is also why Soviet officials stationed abroad, such as Igor Gouzenka in Canada, sometimes become enamored of western civilization, and desert the Soviet cause.

However, regardless of economic or political theories, permanent peace can rest only on the intimate understanding and friendship of peoples. It cannot rest on the whim of governments. That is why, no matter how much the government of England might change, there never could be war between the American and British peoples. Their understanding of each other is too deep and solid to be swayed by any prime minister, president or king.

In Russia, however, public opinion is moulded, in fact made, by Moscow. It does not spring from the Russian people.

For instance, after Prime Minister Attlee made his offer of independence to India, not one line appeared in the Russian press. Moscow newspapers had been harping for weeks on British failure to offer independence to India. But when the offer finally was made, the Russian people had absolutely no way of knowing it.

Thus, if the Soviet government should ever want to justify hostilities with a certain country, or need a foreign threat to strengthen its hand internally, it has the propaganda machinery to do so.

That is why diplomats are intently watching to see whether Byrnes follows up Stalin's opening, calls a spade a spade and asks him to permit free interchange between the American and Russian people.

Note—It wasn't mentioned outside the cabinet, but the Russian situation was so tense just before Stalin started pulling his troops out of Iran that United States military men seriously discussed the bombing of Russian oil fields—if the Red army started an aggressive move on Turkey. President Truman is flatly opposed to using the atom bomb, but military strategists figured that long-range bombers, by knocking out Russian oil, would paralyze the Red army—if it started to march against Turkey or the Dardanelles.

Bouncing Mr. Lie

Trygve Lie, the bouncing Norwegian on whose broad shoulders rest some of the world's weightiest problems, appears the ideal man for secretary-general of the United Nations.

Lie gets a great kick out of living, radiates confidence and friendship. No international conference has seen anything like him.

When Lie and family first arrived in the USA from London, they were up early planning their new life in America. Present at breakfast with Lie, his wife and three daughters, were several top officials of UNO.

"Well, girls," said Lie happily, "now that we're in America, there's a lot that we can see. I want to see a baseball game right away."

"No, Papa," said one of his daughters, "first we must go to see an ice-hockey game. That will be most exciting."

"Is Sonja Henie playing around here?" asked another daughter. "Papa loves to dance with Sonja Henie. I hope she's playing in New York."

The whole family then mourned the fact that Miss Henie is not well liked in their native Norway.

"I certainly hope I can see a good prize fight soon," continued Lie. Then, turning to A. A. Sobolov, a top Russian official of UNO, he continued, "Sobolov, you've got some wonderful heavyweight fighters in your country."

Sovolov shrugged his shoulders. Russia, he observed, doesn't go in for boxing much.

"Nonsense, Sobolov," boomed the secretary-general of the United Nations, "why your people are wonderful fighters. Look what they did to the Germans!"

Note—If he doesn't get enough boxing during UNO bouts over Iran, Lie hopes to watch the Louis-Conn fight this summer.

Capital Chaff

Investment Trusts Stabilize Market, R. W. Babson Says

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW YORK CITY, March 28—In view of the tremendous growth in the business of investment companies, readers of this column should realize their possibilities, both as a service to the small investor and as a factor in stabilizing the present stock market.

Investment companies are divided into two main groups: The closed-end companies are the old-fashioned investment trusts, of which there are a large number scattered throughout the United States. There, however, are only a few large ones, the securities of which are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. As examples of these companies, I might mention Lehman Corporation, Adams Express, Atlas Corporation and Tri-Continental.

These closed-end companies have a definite amount of capital stock which is not increased or decreased. When an investor buys such stock he does not buy of the company but, through a stock-exchange broker, must buy the stock of someone else who desires to sell. As a rule these companies do not diversify very broadly but usually confine themselves to special situations in which they purchase a large interest. Often stocks of these companies sell for less than the real liquidating value of the securities which they hold. This is an advantage to the investor when buying such stocks; but a disadvantage when selling.

"Open-End" Companies

When a salesman calls upon you to sell you the shares of an investment company it will probably be an open-end company where the amount of stock outstanding varies from day to day. There are about seventy-five of such active open-end companies. For instance, if the salesman should sell today $100,000 worth of these shares, when the checks come into the company it will go into the stock market and invest this $100,000 in perhaps twenty high-grade listed stocks, which stocks will be held in the company's treasury. Then, the company will issue $100,000 worth of new shares which will be mailed out to the above-mentioned investors.

It will be seen, therefore, that these open-end, investment companies provide a very good method of diversification for small investors. Naturally, the investor must pay something for this service. All "open-end" investment companies add a sales charge to the asset value of their shares and this charge normally runs around eight and a half per cent. There is, however, no charge for liquidation of a holding except in very rare instances and in such cases it is usually less than one per cent. Without getting into the minute details of the computation, the base figure of asset value is arrived at by dividing the net value of the assets at market by the number of outstanding shares and adding to this the sales charge. This net asset value figure is what is used to determine the price paid at liquidation.

Different Share Classes

Among the larger of these open-end companies might be mentioned the Massachusetts Investors Trust, Keystone Custodian Funds, Incorporated Investors and the State Street Investment Corporation. These companies often have different funds. One fund may be limited to common stocks, another fund to preferred stocks, and another fund to bonds. Moreover, in some cases the above divisions may be divided into "high-grade with low return" and "speculative with high return" which might mean six or more different funds. This enables an investor to decide for himself the character of securities in which he desires to invest, but still insures him broad diversification in the group which he selects. Furthermore, there is no reason why an investor cannot select more than one group, if he so desires, and thus get a double form of diversification.

Nothing Guaranteed

Investors buying the shares of any investment company should realize that there is nothing guaranteed, either as to the annual income to be received, or what cash will be returned if one desires to sell. The market price of the shares in investment companies must go up and down with the general stock market. It is not like putting your money in the savings bank or in government bonds where you know exactly what interest you are going to get and that you can get back the same principal that you put in, no more and no less. Therefore, when buying the shares of an investment company the general stock market averages should be considered.

In the early days, these investment companies were not a market factor; but today they should contribute as a stabilizer of the entire stock market. For instance, it is estimated that about 1,500 firms throughout the country, with an average of five salesmen each, are selling, every day, the shares of investment companies. They are turning in to the New York Stock Exchange, in purchases, nearly $50,000,000 per month, which is nearly five per cent of the total transaction.

It is possible that one-half of the stocks now being liquidated by insurance companies, educational institutions, and trust funds are now being absorbed by these thousands of small investors throughout the country who are daily purchasing the shares of these investment companies. These companies are a cushion which the stock market has never had in the past and, until the holders of these shares liquidate, which previous history shows that as a rule they do not do, these investment companies are performing an economic stabilizing service to the holders of all stocks.

Fairly Firm Market Expected

Today the stock market is very little influenced by typical old time speculators. The fact that he must pay 100 per cent cash for his purchases has pretty much eliminated him from the market. Wall Street and most brokers are now largely "sold out" and the market is in the hands of real investors throughout the country who—either directly or through these investment companies—have the securities paid for and in safe deposit boxes. They are holding these for income; only some panicky event could cause them to sell.

Days when the market is strong, there usually is considerable profit taking. So long as the investment companies and other legitimate investors can absorb these sales, the market holds firm. When such selling exceeds the buying powers of these investment companies and small investors, the market sells off. When the buying power of these investment companies—spurred on by 7,500 active salesmen—exceeds the selling, the market continues to rise. It is true that we have a "thin market" today; but this need not prevent it selling at these levels or above for many months to come.

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

McKeldin's Prediction Is Amply Substantiated

BITTER EDITORIALS, filled with recriminations, now appearing in various newspapers in the eastern part of the state that are supporting different candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination quite substantiate the declaration made here by Mayor McKendin, of Baltimore, that an irreconcilable fight is in progress on the Democratic side of the Maryland political fence giving indications that "this is the year" for a sweeping change. Judging from the tone of the utterances thus far in advance of the primary, the mayor's prediction that they are going to have "one awful fight," has already been amply supported. They are, in fact, divided as they have never before been divided.

The situation behooves Republicans of the state to take due advantage of their own chances, as the mayor suggested, since the Democratic squabbling will undoubtedly alienate many disgruntled and dissatisfied members of that party, who can be expected to switch over into the Republican camp for support of one or more of its candidates. But in doing so, they must look to the necessity of party unity and harmony among themselves and, as Chairman Galen L. Tait has declared, put their best foot forward by nominating candidates of ability, character, sobriety and vote-getting talents.

As the state chairman has declared, "well-chosen and strong candidates, aided by party zeal and organization—outweighing that of 1942—helped by opposition doubt and dissension, supported by the undeniable Republican trend based on accumulated complaints, will go very far in assuring county, city, state and federal success in 1946, this year of political regeneration."

The chances for Republican success are bright not only in the state but nationally, as Mayor McKeldin said, particularly in view of the unsettled international situation to which Washington administration policy, or lack of policy, has contributed so materially. And added to that is the widespread and pronounced dissatisfaction among the people over the fumbling and blundering that has hamstrung domestic progress in the critical postwar period.

Russia Still Intransigent

RETIREMENT of the Russian delegate, Andrei A. Gromyko, from the meeting of the United Nations Organization Security Council because Russia lost its fight to defer consideration of the Iranian question, was like that of a petulant, spoiled child who just won't play unless the game is to his own liking. At this writing, it was not known what the future course of the Russian delegate would be with regard to active participation in the council sessions, but it had been pointed out that his retirement was not a withdrawal on the part of his government.

The situation has been muddled by the forthright declaration of the Iranian delegate, Hussein Ala, that no agreement "secret or otherwise" had ben effected between his country and Russia, which flatly contradicts what had previously been stated by the Russians and hopefully accepted as factual in this country.

Gromyko has maintained in his battle against consideration of the question that Russia and Iran had reached an understanding and that Russian troops would be withdrawn in five or six weeks unless "unforseen circumstances" arose. But Ala contended that Iran's demand for withdrawal of Soviet troops had been refused and that it had been informed that the Soviet intended to keep troops in some parts of the country. Also, Ala said, a proposed Russian agreement to rescind demands for oil concessions was offered on the condition that Iran agree to set up an Iran-Russian oil company with Russia holding fifty-one per cent of the stock, which, of course, would give control to Russia. Apparently, this was rejected, although Ala's account was not clear as to that because of a request that the question be confined to that of postponement.

Here is a case wherein oil does not seem to calm the troubled waters. What is to be done is perplexing and confounds Americans who have been hoping that Russia had begun to feel the weight of world public opinion and would be more reasonable than it has hitherto. It is, as Ala declared, an "explosive" situation. It can only be hoped that reason, calm heads and the necessity for world peace will prevent an actual explosion.

Nylons for Mexico As a Campaign Item

WHILE anxious women stand in long lines leading eventually to front doors of hosiery shops and department stores in every city in the land, there come a news dispatch that thousands of these scarce and ineffably precious things are being shipped to Mexico. A total of at least 648,000 in two weeks, the story said. All that—and nylons, too!

One hesitates to contemplate what must have been said in the hosiery lines when that story came in. Plenty, no doubt.

American women, by and large—no pun intended—are for the Good Neighbor policy, but what woman is going to let her neighbor have her hose? Here the little woman is likely to put her foot (devoid of stocking) down. And who will blame her? Surely no one, except perhaps those working girls who complain they do not have time to spend in lines and thus cannot buy what hosiery is offered to the gasping, grasping public.

Here is something for those adventurous men who now are announcing their candidacies for public office to think about. "A pair of nylons on every towel rack," or something like that, might make a campaign slogan that would sweep the country. The empty stocking drawer has replaced the full dinner pail as a campaign issue.

And who dares ignore the wrath of the stockingless woman?

Magic in Medicine Has Limits, Too

IN THE FAIRY TALES there was always a strict limit to the power of the magic rings and robes which the characters put on. If they were used too greedily or too frequently, the magic powers disappeared.

It now is asserted that much the same thing is true of two of the new drugs of almost magical power to cure disease, penicillin and streptomycin.

According to Dr. Hans Molitor, of the Merck Institute of Therapeutic Research, the two drugs may become ineffective as remedies within the next five or ten years as a result of their popularity and widespread use. The trouble seems to be that the germs against which they are most effective now are able to build up resistance to them.

In patients with pneumonia, streptococcus infections and some other ailments, the antibiotics, as these drugs are called, have produced some miraculous cures. But physicians are discovering that penicillin will not work as well and sometimes it will not work at all with patients who have taken the same drug previously.

As far as the public is concerned, the lesson of this seems to be that it is poor judgment to use the antibiotics for relatively minor infections which could be cured in some other way. There is, apparently, a definite danger of wearing the magic out so that penicillin will not be effective in case of real need.

Perhaps the research scientists will be able to find a way to get around this difficulty. But, in the meantime, it would be a good idea to put the use and distribution of these drugs under stricter medical control and it would certainly be unwise to use them except on a physician's prescription.

Fleecing of Veterans Deserves Vigorous Probe

IT IS ENCOURAGING to hear that the attorney general of the United States is conducting an investigation aimed at halting the fleecing of veterans.

Attorney General Tom Clark said that reports are being received from many parts of the country that small loan firms are advancing money to veterans at usurious rates. He said that there are indications that these lenders are loaning money at unlawful rates on the strength of mustering-out pay and unemployment insurance. The Federal Bureau of Investigation is making a nationwide check, he asserted.

The attorney general also said there have been reports that certain real estate agents are charging veterans who are buying homes sums in excess of the purchase price shown in the papers.

United States attorneys, he said, have been asked to co-operate with state and local officials to protect the service personnel.

It is to be hoped that these inquiries will be pushed with vigor and that every effort will be made to halt the unfair practices. Fleecing veterans is a despicable enterprise. It constitutes a shameful way of treating men who fought for their country.

Housecleaning is under way now, but, according to Mayor McKeldin, there is to be another and bigger job of it in the fall because in spite of the fact that summer does not bring the dirt that winter does, our Democratic friends are going to supply a lot and the fall job will be really something—both at Annapolis and at Washington, but there is some consolation in the fact that it can be done with the ballot instead of with mop and broom.

Any of us can make his wishes come true, if he realizes that wishes are the goals and that work is the way that gives us the horses on which we can safely ride. Any other way is futile and leads to frustration.

NEAR TO THINGS

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

We are always near to things, both important and unimportant, but in this relation often the simplest things are as important as the big things. It's how each fits into the pattern of our lives. We are, of course, influenced most by the near, familiar things, whatever they may be.

The friend, or human acquaintance, of whom we see the most, and with whom we have the most intimate relationship, unconsciously influences us more than we suspect. We are, in fact, a part of the very work of that one whose service is rendered to us. We are, indeed, a part of the thoughts to which we listen, the moment that they meet our own in a harmonious blending.

We are akin to greatness, as John Drinkwater suggested in his fine play "Abraham Lincoln," through the Chronicler, the moment that we appreciate greatness. Those elements that fashion greatness, to a greater or lesser degree, are to be found in us all. We rise to them, as they are magnified before our spiritual vision.

"Virtue," said Confucius, "does not remain as an abandoned orphan: it must of necessity have neighbors." We seek out and wish to be near those things and those human beings that meet us most on common ground. The naturalist seeks the wild, and all its fascinating, endless attractions, and he is never far from any of them. Likewise, we in our daily lives seek out the ideas, the books, the companions that most nearly fit us on intimate terms.

The lover of books is never so happy as when alone with his favorites. And so the lover of human beings is never so happy as when engaged in intimate service to them. We are nearest to God when we are nearest to the things which He created for our profit and enjoyment. Truth, beauty, worth—cling! That is why it is so important to get near to them, and stay there.

Those who now hate most are those who were in it, experiencing all its filth, degradation, futility, and inglorioursness. Had the great nations of the world stayed near to that righteousnes that "exalteth a nation," the world would not now lie tragically wounded, filled with fear, and so deadened in spirit.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Mar. 28.—Not long before he died, Franklin Roosevelt was talking to his friend Morris Ernst, author of "The First Freedom," about the problem of penetrating the iron curtain around Russia.

Ernst had told Roosevelt how an OWI illustrated magazine, "America," finally had been permitted to enter Russia in limited quantities. Although given away by the United States Government, the magazines were in such demand that the Russians later resold them for large sums of money.

One article in the magazine described the life of George Washington Carver, famous negro scientist, and the high recognition he was given in the United States. Ernst told FDR that this article was the first evidence the Russians had to disprove the communist propaganda that all negroes were beaten or lynched in the United States. Ernst also urged the importance of getting more books and radio broadcasts inside Russia in order to ensure permanent American - Soviet friendship.

Roosevelt agreed and added:

"When the right time comes, there is just one book which will win over the Russian people."

"What is that?" asked Ernest.

"The Sears Roebuck csatalogue."

Stalin's Opening

Most important point now being watched by diplomats is whether Jimmy Byrnes, who has done a good job regarding Russia, will now take advantage of Stalin's latest opening. Stalin's statement reaffirming his faith in the United Nations and the friendship of peoples is considered the best break United States-USSR relations have had in months—if Secretary Byrnes vigorously follows it up.

For, hitherto, we have never been able to penetrate the iron curtain to tell the Russian people what we really are, rather than what the Soviet government says we are. Stalin has now given an opportunity for Byrnes to step in and say that he takes Stalin at his word and wants to exchange students, professors, motion pictures, radio broadcasts, books and magazines.

Reason for Iron Curtain

Diplomatic reports from Moscow indicate that the iron curtain around Russia is motivated by one compelling fact: Soviet leaders do not want the Russian people to realize that the capitalist world may be equal or better than communism. For years the Russian people have been sold the idea that their system is far superior to anything else; that capitalist nations are enslaved.

That is why fraternization between Russian and American troops was discouraged. That is why Russians so avidly buy up wrist watches and other baubles on the Berlin black market. That is also why Soviet officials stationed abroad, such as Igor Gouzenka in Canada, sometimes become enamored of western civilization, and desert the Soviet cause.

However, regardless of economic or political theories, permanent peace can rest only on the intimate understanding and friendship of peoples. It cannot rest on the whim of governments. That is why, no matter how much the government of England might change, there never could be war between the American and British peoples. Their understanding of each other is too deep and solid to be swayed by any prime minister, president or king.

In Russia, however, public opinion is moulded, in fact made, by Moscow. It does not spring from the Russian people.

For instance, after Prime Minister Attlee made his offer of independence to India, not one line appeared in the Russian press. Moscow newspapers had been harping for weeks on British failure to offer independence to India. But when the offer finally was made, the Russian people had absolutely no way of knowing it.

Thus, if the Soviet government should ever want to justify hostilities with a certain country, or need a foreign threat to strengthen its hand internally, it has the propaganda machinery to do so.

That is why diplomats are intently watching to see whether Byrnes follows up Stalin's opening, calls a spade a spade and asks him to permit free interchange between the American and Russian people.

Note—It wasn't mentioned outside the cabinet, but the Russian situation was so tense just before Stalin started pulling his troops out of Iran that United States military men seriously discussed the bombing of Russian oil fields—if the Red army started an aggressive move on Turkey. President Truman is flatly opposed to using the atom bomb, but military strategists figured that long-range bombers, by knocking out Russian oil, would paralyze the Red army—if it started to march against Turkey or the Dardanelles.

Bouncing Mr. Lie

Trygve Lie, the bouncing Norwegian on whose broad shoulders rest some of the world's weightiest problems, appears the ideal man for secretary-general of the United Nations.

Lie gets a great kick out of living, radiates confidence and friendship. No international conference has seen anything like him.

When Lie and family first arrived in the USA from London, they were up early planning their new life in America. Present at breakfast with Lie, his wife and three daughters, were several top officials of UNO.

"Well, girls," said Lie happily, "now that we're in America, there's a lot that we can see. I want to see a baseball game right away."

"No, Papa," said one of his daughters, "first we must go to see an ice-hockey game. That will be most exciting."

"Is Sonja Henie playing around here?" asked another daughter. "Papa loves to dance with Sonja Henie. I hope she's playing in New York."

The whole family then mourned the fact that Miss Henie is not well liked in their native Norway.

"I certainly hope I can see a good prize fight soon," continued Lie. Then, turning to A. A. Sobolov, a top Russian official of UNO, he continued, "Sobolov, you've got some wonderful heavyweight fighters in your country."

Sovolov shrugged his shoulders. Russia, he observed, doesn't go in for boxing much.

"Nonsense, Sobolov," boomed the secretary-general of the United Nations, "why your people are wonderful fighters. Look what they did to the Germans!"

Note—If he doesn't get enough boxing during UNO bouts over Iran, Lie hopes to watch the Louis-Conn fight this summer.

Investment Trusts Stabilize Market, R. W. Babson Says

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW YORK CITY, March 28—In view of the tremendous growth in the business of investment companies, readers of this column should realize their possibilities, both as a service to the small investor and as a factor in stabilizing the present stock market.

Investment companies are divided into two main groups: The closed-end companies are the old-fashioned investment trusts, of which there are a large number scattered throughout the United States. There, however, are only a few large ones, the securities of which are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. As examples of these companies, I might mention Lehman Corporation, Adams Express, Atlas Corporation and Tri-Continental.

These closed-end companies have a definite amount of capital stock which is not increased or decreased. When an investor buys such stock he does not buy of the company but, through a stock-exchange broker, must buy the stock of someone else who desires to sell. As a rule these companies do not diversify very broadly but usually confine themselves to special situations in which they purchase a large interest. Often stocks of these companies sell for less than the real liquidating value of the securities which they hold. This is an advantage to the investor when buying such stocks; but a disadvantage when selling.

"Open-End" Companies

When a salesman calls upon you to sell you the shares of an investment company it will probably be an open-end company where the amount of stock outstanding varies from day to day. There are about seventy-five of such active open-end companies. For instance, if the salesman should sell today $100,000 worth of these shares, when the checks come into the company it will go into the stock market and invest this $100,000 in perhaps twenty high-grade listed stocks, which stocks will be held in the company's treasury. Then, the company will issue $100,000 worth of new shares which will be mailed out to the above-mentioned investors.

It will be seen, therefore, that these open-end investment companies provide a very good method of diversification for small investors. Naturally, the investor must pay something for this service. All "open-end" investment companies add a sales charge to the asset value of their shares and this charge normally runs around eight and a half per cent. There is, however, no charge for liquidation of a holding except in very rare instances and in such cases it is usually less than one per cent. Without getting into the minute details of the computation, the base figure of asset value is arrived at by dividing the net value of the assets at market by the number of outstanding shares and adding to this the sales charge. This net asset value figure is what is used to determine the price paid at liquidation.

Different Share Classes

Among the larger of these open-end companies might be mentioned the Massachusetts Investors Trust, Keystone Custodian Funds, Incorporated Investors and the State Street Investment Corporation. These companies often have different funds. One fund may be limited to common stocks, another fund to preferred stocks, and another fund to bonds. Moreover, in some cases the above divisions may be divided into "high-grade with low return" and "speculative with high return" which might mean six or more different funds. This enables an investor to decide for himself the character of securities in which he desires to invest, but still insures him broad diversification in the group which he selects. Furthermore, there is no reason why an investor cannot select more than one group, if he so desires, and thus get a double form of diversification.

Nothing Guaranteed

Investors buying the shares of any investment company should realize that there is nothing guaranteed, either as to the annual income to be received, or what cash will be returned if one desires to sell. The market price of the shares in investment companies must go up and down with the general stock market. It is not like putting your money in the savings bank or in government bonds where you know exactly what interest you are going to get and that you can get back the same principal that you put in, no more and no less. Therefore, when buying the shares of an investment company the general stock market averages should be considered.

In the early days, these investment companies were not a market factor; but today they should contribute as a stabilizer of the entire stock market. For instance, it is estimated that about 1,500 firms throughout the country, with an average of five salesmen each, are selling, every day, the shares of investment companies. They are turning in to the New York Stock Exchange, in purchases, nearly $50,000,000 per month, which is nearly five per cent of the total transaction.

It is possible that one-half of the stocks now being liquidated by insurance companies, educational institutions, and trust funds are now being absorbed by these thousands of small investors throughout the country who are daily purchasing the shares of these investment companies. These companies are a cushion which the stock market has never had in the past and, until the holders of these shares liquidate, which previous history shows that as a rule they do not do, these investment companies are performing an economic stabilizing service to the holders of all stocks.

Fairly Firm Market Expected

Today the stock market is very little influenced by typical old time speculators. The fact that he must pay 100 per cent cash for his purchases has pretty much eliminated him from the market. Wall Street and most brokers are now largely "sold out" and the market is in the hands of real investors throughout the country who—either directly or through these investment companies—have the securities paid for and in safe deposit boxes. They are holding these for income; only some panicky event could cause them to sell.

Days when the market is strong, there usually is considerable profit taking. So long as the investment companies and other legitimate investors can absorb these sales, the market holds firm. When such selling exceeds the buying powers of these investment companies and small investors, the market sells off. When the buying power of these investment companies—spurred on by 7,500 active salesmen—exceeds the selling, the market continues to rise. It is true that we have a "thin market" today; but this need not prevent it selling at these levels or above for many months to come.

Row of Leaders Brings Out Facts On Auto Strike

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 28. — It takes a row between two prominent union leaders to bring out the facts of the recent strike at General Motors, which cost the nation many hundreds of millions of dollars and deprived 200,000 or more workers of a livelihood for nearly four months.

Apparently no "fact-finding" commission appointed by the government dared to bring out the facts and apparently no newspaper or press association was able to verify for the American people the facts which now are openly admitted.

What are some of these facts? It is learned now, for example, that a serious political controversy involving the ambitions of two leaders led to a strategy in the strike that prolonged it unduly.

Thus, R. J. Thomas, defeated candidate for re-election as president of the United Automobile Workers union, CIO, told a press conference at Atlantic City before the balloting began that the walkout in General Motors last autumn was bodly timed by the leadership, that the strike lasted four weeks too long, that the price issue should never have been injected into the wage negotiations and that "inability to pay" is not a sound argument at all.

Contention "Dangerous"

Mr. Thomas contended that "inability to pay" would be a dangerous contention for unions to face, because it would get the unions into difficulties with competing companies. He added that this issue needlessly prolonged the strike, and he blamer Walter Reuther, his rival for the presidency, for these tactics.

Mr. Thomas remarked that the "show your books" demand was "just propaganda." Even his opponent, Mr. Reuther, conceded that it was "just a maneuver to win public support and to get the company over a barrel," and he says Mr. Thomas knew all about this phase of the strategy.

Yet the American people were told by no less a person than the president of the United States that the demand to open the books was important and should be heeded. The incident illustrates how naive even a chief executive can be in the maelstrom of union politics and trick maneuvers whereby unions see to get favorable publicity and prejudice the case against the employers.

Personal Ambitions Shown

The United Automobile Workers union in the CIO is one of the largest in the history of trade unionism. The fact that personal ambitions played a part in bringing on the recent strike in the auto industry has been widely suspected but not until the convention at Atlantic City did the unvarnished truth come out.

Collective bargaining as granted by the Wagner law was not intended to provide a new system of government for a special group or a new means of political exploitation of the average man. It was intended to protect the rights of workers to organize in their own interest. No provision was made in the law to prevent abuse of power or exploitation of the worker by leaders who could, if they chose, discriminate against those who disagreed with their course. Likewise, mass picketing has been moderated to as physical violence used to prevent citizens from exercising their right to enter their own property.

Workers who want to work and may or may not be members of a union have been forcibly deprived of their civil rights.

Climax on Evils

The convention at Atlantic City of the U A W is the climax which draws public attention to the evils of "Big unionism" which now parallel the evils of the big corporations that have failed to use their economic power in the public interest.

The Congress of the United States, moreover, has been browbeaten into submission by the political power of big unions which have defied governmental authority and threatened reprisals upon members of the legislative body. If trade upnions must resort to mass violence to win strikes, and if rival personalities with political ambitions can inflict hundreds of millions of dollars of damage on the country without being held to accountability for such economic crimes, it means that liberties are not being protected by so-called liberals at all and that a new set of reactionaries have arisen in America to play havoc with democratic government.

Row of Leaders Brings Out Facts On Auto Strike

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 28. — It takes a row between two prominent union leaders to bring out the facts of the recent strike at General Motors, which cost the nation many hundreds of millions of dollars and deprived 200,000 or more workers of a livelihood for nearly four months.

Apparently no "fact-finding" commission appointed by the government dared to bring out the facts and apparently no newspaper or press association was able to verify for the Amgrican people the facts which now are openly admitted.

What are some of these facts? It is learned now, for example, that a serious political controversy involving the ambitions of two leaders led to a strategy in the strike that prolonged it unduly.

Thus, R. J. Thomas, defeated candidate for re-election as president of the United Automobile Workers union, CIO, told a press conference at Atlantic City before the balloting began that the walkout in General Motors last autumn was bodly timed by the leadership, that the strike lasted four weeks too long, that the price issue should never have been injected into the wage negotiations and that "inability to pay" is not a sound argument at all.

Contention "Dangerous"

Mr. Thomas contended that "inability to pay" would be a dangerous contention for unions to face, because it would get the unions into difficulties with competing companies. He added that this issue needlessly prolonged the strike, and he blamer Walter Reuther, his rival for the presidency, for these tactics.

Mr. Thomas remarked that the "show your books" demand was "just propaganda." Even his opponent, Mr. Reuther, conceded that it was "just a maneuver to win public support and to get the company over a barrel," and he says Mr. Thomas knew all about this phase of the strategy.

Yet the American people were told by no less a person than the president of the United States that the demand to open the books was important and should be heeded. The incident illustrates how naive even a chief executive can be in the maelstrom of union politics and trick maneuvers whereby unions see to get favorable publicity and prejudice the case against the employers.

Personal Ambitions Shown

The United Automobile Workers union in the CIO is one of the largest in the history of trade unionism. The fact that personal ambitions played a part in bringing on the recent strike in the auto industry has been widely suspected but not until the convention at Atlantic City did the unvarnished truth come out.

Collective bargaining as granted by the Wagner law was not intended to provide a new system of government for a special group or a new means of political exploitation of the average man. It was intended to protect the rights of workers to organize in their own interest. No provision was made in the law to prevent abuse of power or exploitation of the worker by leaders who could, if they chose, discriminate against those who disagreed with their course. Likewise, mass picketing has been moderated to as physical violence used to prevent citizens from exercising their right to enter their own property.

Workers who want to work and may or may not be members of a union have been forcibly deprived of their civil rights.

Climax on Evils

The convention at Atlantic City of the U A W is the climax which draws public attention to the evils of "Big unionism" which now parallel the evils of the big corporations that have failed to use their economic power in the public interest.

The Congress of the United States, moreover, has been browbeaten into submission by the political power of big unions which have defied governmental authority and threatened reprisals upon members of the legislative body. OPA LISTS THREE PRODUCE CHANGES

Assorted Stocks Exhibit Strength; Many Leaders Continue To Limp

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—Assorted stocks exhibited quiet strength in today's market while many leaders continue to limp.

The pace slowed appreciably after a fairly fast opening and trends were irregularly lower at the close. Transfers of 900,000 shares compared with 1,010,000 Wednesday and were the smallest for a full session since March 12.

National Distillers, off the greater part of the day, jumped three points when a boosted dividends was announced. The stock soon backed away and finished for a net loss of one-half.

Electric Boat added three and three and three eighths, Grand Union Stores two and one-eighth, Distillers Corporation two and one-fourth and Willys-Overland two and one-fourth. Lesser gainers included Electric Power and Light, Consolidated Edison, Public Service of New Jersey Goodrich, United States Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Kennecott, Southern Railway, R-K-O, Lowe's Texas Company, and Standard Oil (N.J.)

On the offside were Allied Chemical down four on 200 shares; United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe., Pennsylvania, Caterpillar Tractor, American Airlines, Boeing, Curtiss-Wright "A," Du Pont, General Electric, Schenley, Westinghouse and Union Carbide.

In the Curb, Russek's was up two on a lifted quarterly payment. American Potash, weak yesterday, pushed up five and three-fourths. Sherwin-Williams advanced three and three-fourths and Singer Manufacturing one. Turnover here was 450,000 shares versus 470,000 the day before.

The bond market idled through its quietest full session since March 12. Activity centered in the rails where a number of lower priced issues held advances, while selected industrials suffered fractional losses.

Sales totaled $4,050,000 compared with $4,110,000 on Wednesday.

Long range United States governments advanced one-eighth to more than one-fourth of a point on the stock exchange and the trend was higher in outside markets.

Assorted Stocks Exhibit Strength; Many Leaders Continue To Limp

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—Assorted stocks exhibited quiet strength in today's market while many leaders continue to limp.

The pace slowed appreciably after a fairly fast opening and trends were irregularly lower at the close. Transfers of 900,000 shares compared with 1,010,000 Wednesday and were the smallest for a full session since March 12.

National Distillers, off the greater part of the day, jumped three points when a boosted dividends was announced. The stock soon backed away and finished for a net loss of one-half.

Electric Boat added three and three and three eighths, Grand Union Stores two and one-eighth, Distillers Corporation two and one-fourth and Willys-Overland two and one-fourth. Lesser gainers included Electric Power and Light, Consolidated Edison, Public Service of New Jersey Goodrich, United States Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Kennecott, Southern Railway, R-K-O, Lowe's Texas Company, and Standard Oil (N.J.)

On the offside were Allied Chemical down four on 200 shares; United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Caterpillar Tractor, American Airlines, Boeing, Curtiss-Wright "A." Du Pont, General Electric, Schenley, Westinghouse and Union Carbide.

In the Curb, Russek's was up two on a lifted quarterly payment. American Potash, weak yesterday, pushed up five and three-fourths. Sherwin-Williams advanced three and three-fourths and Singer Manufacturing one. Turnover here was 450,000 shares versus 470,000 the day before.

The bond market idled through its quietest full session since March 12. Activity centered in the rails where a number of lower priced issues held advances, while selected industrials suffered fractional losses.

Sales totaled $4,050,000 compared with $4,110,000 on Wednesday.

Long range United States governments advanced one-eighth to more than one-fourth of a point on the stock exchange and the trend was higher in outside markets.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

GEORGE: "Yes, I certainly would like to hear why you call that an old fashioned idea, Judge."

OLD JUDGE: "Glad to tell you, George. Until recently, a person known as an alcoholic was generally treated as a social outcast. Little if anything was done to understand him or help him. But, during the past few years, medical research and study has developed that alcoholics are really sick people . . . that there is usually a deep-rooted physical, social or emotional reason behind their behavior. That's why today so much is being done to help them by finding out and correcting the condition that leads them to excess."

GEORGE: "How many folks are there like that, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Well, according to scientific research, 95% of the people who drink, drink sensibly. 5% do so unwisely, at times. Included in that 5% is the small percentage of the sick people I'm talking about."

GEORGE: "That certainly gives me a clearer picture. It's the most sensible approach I've ever heard on the subject."

O. B. Boughton

Leaders Are Needed

Among Mr. Boughton's papers is a report he was requested to make to the organization in October of last year when he made a characteristic comment. It was:

"The most worthwhile achievements of our association throughout the years have come only through the combined efforts of its many earnest and judicious leaders supported ably by the intelligent and courageous teachers among our rank and file. A few generals can't win a war. Neither can the battles in the cause of education so be won. The will and the might of the rank and file must be rallied. That is the lone hope of education and for civilization. It is the basic idea for the promulgating of democracy. The world abounds in leaders, some mighty good — some mighty bad. What is needed is intelligent fellowship."

In a report for the legislative committee submitted to the association last October, Mr. Boughton commented, "our new salary schedule, $1,500 for beginning assistant teachers and ranging upward to $2,400 for the fifteenth year of experience, is a far cry from the salary schedule in 1895."

"In that year I started to teach in a two room school in Eckhart. As principal I received the scheduled salary of $350, and my assistant received exactly $262.50. Such skimping by the fiscal body of all the needs of the schools continued with only trivial improvements up to 1903, regardless of our remonstrance and repeated pleadings.

"Tired of all this, in that year we resolved to form this association with the vow and the means of action written into its constitution to bring forth a more enlightened and better day. In the year 1904 we secured a substantial increase in salary for those days and in 1908, ten per cent, through the action of the legislature and so on through repeated action of the legislature until the $262.50 had become $450, a total increase of about seventy per cent before 1917."

Must Be Alert

The report continues that skyrocketing costs of living incident to World War I resulted in a campaign and salaries were boosted to $972 for the first year's experience. In 1939, the association broke with tradition again and urged the support of two members of the general assembly who had previously supported the cause of the schools. Both were re-elected. And the association since has had the continual support of the seven Allegany county members of the assembly, Mr. Boughton noted.

More recently, Mr. Boughton has warned the members of the association that they must not "rest on their oars" as "judging by what has happened in the past, if an era of much deflation sets in, we can expect active political pressure to lower our salaries such as was effected in 1933."

Commenting on his future plans last night, Mr. Boughton said "well, I hope to get outdoors more and do more walking. Teaching is a confining business. There's classwork in the daytime and papers and reports at night."

The teachers of the county will honor him with a testimonial dinner April 12.

Three Questions May

"The Security council will meet at 3 p. m. (EST) tomorrow at Hunter college. The meeting will be open to the public."

The council went into session at 4:35 p. m. EST and at 6:49 p. m. the chairman, Dr. Quo Tai-Chi, said the meeting was over. But from no one came even a hint of why Gromyko said at the last minute he would attend, drove past the scene of the meeting in his private car at least twice, and then went back to his headquarters and into seclusion.

It had been announced that the executive session was to consider procedure but no official had mentioned publicly that Iran would be discussed. However, Gromyko apparently learned that the Iranian case would come up. Thus in keeping with his repeated protests against hearing the Iranian discussion until April 10, he did not attend.

Gromyko's principal advisor, Prof. Boris Stein, attended the meeting at Hunter college of the council's committee of experts, called to consider procedure earlier in the day.

In another section of New York, the chief of the Russian military delegation to the United Nations, Lt.-Gen. A. P. Vasiliev, went to a session of the military staff committee of the council, which includes military representatives of the U.S.S.R., France, China, Britain and the United States.

Prof. Stein was in the limousine with Gromyko as the delegate drove by the building at 610 Fifth avenue, where the council held its executive session, and the two could be seen gesticulating as they talked.

Truman Wants Speedy Action

But at no time during the more than two-hour conference was any Russian representative seen to enter or leave the session.

The other nations' delegates went into their closed meeting with the full backing of President Truman to press for immediate consideration of the Iranian dispute.

The president told his press conference in Washington that he had talked with Secretary of State James F. Byrnes just thirty minutes before meeting reporters in the White House and that Byrnes had the president's full support to press for immediate consideration of the Russian-Iranian dispute.

Gromyko's action added one more element to a day crowded with rumors and counter rumors, in which his press representative had said that the Russians have not walked out on the United Nations but solely on the Iranian dispute.

The Russian action was in keeping with Ambassador Gromyko's repeated assertions before the council in the two-day debate leading up to his dramatic withdrawal yesterday. Gromyko has said that his government had requested postponement of consideration of the Iranian case until April 10 and that he, therefore, was not prepared to discuss the substance of the Russian-Iranian argument before that date.

When the council yesterday voted down his proposal to postpone the matter until April 10, he gathered his papers and his delegation and left the room.

Potomac Light and Power Files New Rate Schedule

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 28 (AP)—The Potomac Light and Power Company filed a new rate schedule with the public service commission today, explaining that the plan would result in a savings of $236,800 annually to its West Virginia customers.

The firm serves Jefferson, Berkeley, Morgan, Grant, Hampshire, Hardy and Mineral counties, with headquarters in Hagerstown, Md.

In a letter to the commission, D. E. Stultz, vice president, said the reductions would not affect all customers, but none would face higher charges.

plants could produce atomic energy for medicinal, research and other scientific purposes, and for power and other industrial uses.

The committee said that the energy produced by these secondary plants would not make explosives. The plants themselves, moreover, would be incapable of being converted to bomb factories without extensive reconstruction which would take "two or three years" and which would advertise the illegal activity.

The whole control system would be bolstered by an international force of inspectors. The inspectors would be more than policemen, however. They would be eminent scientists who also would give advice on research and operation.

service is compiled from the complete dispatches of the AP.

"The city wire, direct from the AP news room in Washington, carries a condensed version of the day's news report, plus-up-to-the-minute listings of press conferences, committee hearings, important government releases and other newsworthy events.

Not For Publication

"In wire service jargon, the prime purpose of the city service might be slugged "FYI," for the report is designed solely for the information of subscribers. It is not for publication or broadcast.

"Emphasis is on Washington news, but top domestic and foreign stories —especially those which may have Washington angles, form a considerable part of the report.

"Nothing with a Washington dateline is overlooked—from the weather reports for correspondents who might like to play golf, to the treasury report. Two types of service are provided. One runs from 8:30 a. m. to 8:30 p. m. daily except Sunday. The other covers these hours but continues to midnight weekdays and gives eight hours of coverage on Sundays.

Special correspondents are not the only subscribers to this play-by-play report. The AP city wire has found its way into most of the top government departments. Among them are Army, Navy, Justice, Interior, State, Treasury and UNRRA. Several newspapers are subscribers, too, and Walter Lippmann, the columnist, keeps in touch with the world through a printer in his home.

"AP's new venture was established last October by Joe H. Torbett, Washington representative of Press Association. It has an editorial staff of five."

Leaders Are Needed

Among Mr. Boughton's papers is a report he was requested to make to the organization in October of last year when he made a charac-teristic comment. It was:

"The most worthwhile achieve-ments of our association throughout the years have come only through the combined efforts of its many earnest and judicious leaders sup-ported ably by the intelligent and courageous teachers among our rank and file. A few generals can't win a war. Neither can the battles in the cause of education so be won. The will and the might of the rank and file must be rallied. That is the lone hope of education and for civilization. It is the basic idea for the promulgating of democracy. The world abounds in leaders, some mighty good — some mighty bad. What is needed is intelligent fellow-ship."

In a report for the legislative committee submitted to the associa-tion last October, Mr. Boughton commented, "our new salary sche-dule, $1,500 for beginning assistant teachers and ranging upward to $2,400 for the fifteenth year of ex-perience, is a far cry from the salary schedule in 1895."

"In that year I started to teach in a two room school in Eckhart. As principal I received the sched-uled salary of $350, and my assistant received exactly $262.50. Such skimping by the fiscal body of all the needs of the schools continued with only trivial improvements up to 1903, regardless of our remon-strance and repeated pleadings.

"Tired of all this, in that year we resolved to form this association with the vow and the means of action written into its constitution to bring forth a more enlightened and better day. In the year 1904 we secured a substantial increase in salary for those days and in 1908, ten per cent, through the action of the legislature and so on through repeated action of the legislature until the $262.50 had become $450, a total increase of about seventy per cent before 1917."

Must Be Alert

The report continues that sky-rocketing costs of living incident to World War I resulted in a campaign and salaries were boosted to $972 for the first year's experience. In 1939, the association broke with tra-dition again and urged the support of two members of the general assembly who had previously sup-ported the cause of the schools. Both were re-elected. And the as-sociation since has had the con-tinual support of the seven Allegany county members of the assembly, Mr. Boughton noted.

More recently, Mr. Boughton has warned the members of the associa-tion that they must not "rest on their oars" as "judging by what has happened in the past, if an era of much deflation sets in, we can ex-pect active political pressure to lower our salaries such as was ef-fected in 1933."

Commenting on his future plans last night, Mr. Boughton said "well, I hope to get outdoors more and do more walking. Teaching is a confining business. There's class-work in the daytime and papers and reports at night."

The teachers of the county will honor him with a testimonial dinner April 12.

Three Questions May

"The Security council will meet at 3 p. m. (EST) tomorrow at Hunter college. The meeting will be open to the public."

The council went into session at 4:35 p. m. EST and at 6:49 p. m. the chairman, Dr. Quo Tai-Chi, said the meeting was over. But from no one came even a hint of why Gromyko said at the last minute he would attend, drove past the scene of the meeting in his private car at least twice, and then went back to his headquarters and into seclusion.

It had been announced that the executive session was to consider procedure but no official had men-tioned publicly that Iran would be discussed. However, Gromyko ap-parently learned that the Iranian case would come up. Thus in keep-ing with his repeated protests against hearing the Iranian discus-sion until April 10, he did not attend.

Gromyko's principal advisor, Prof. Boris Stein, attended the meeting at Hunter college of the council's com-mittee of experts, called to consider procedure earlier in the day.

In another section of New York, the chief of the Russian military delegation to the United Nations, Lt.-Gen. A. P. Vasiliev, went to a session of the military staff com-mittee of the council, which in-cludes military representatives of the U.S.S.R., France, China, Britain and the United States.

Prof. Stein was in the limousine with Gromyko as the delegate drove by the building at 610 Fifth avenue, where the council held its executive session, and the two could be seen gesticulating as they talked.

Truman Wants Speedy Action

But at no time during the more than two-hour conference was any Russian representative seen to enter or leave the session.

The other nations' delegates went into their closed meeting with the full backing of President Truman to press for immediate consideration of the Iranian dispute.

The president told his press con-ference in Washington that he had talked with Secretary of State James F. Byrnes just thirty minutes before meeting reporters in the White House and that Byrnes had the president's full support to press for immediate consideration of the Russian-Iranian dispute.

Gromyko's action added one more element to a day crowded with rumors and counter rumors, in which his press representative had said that the Russians have not walked out on the United Nations but solely on the Iranian dispute.

The Russian action was in keep-ing with Ambassador Gromyko's re-peated assertions before the council in the two-day debate leading up to his dramatic withdrawal yester-day. Gromyko has said that his government had requested post-ponement of consideration of the Iranian case until April 10 and that he, therefore, was not prepared to discuss the substance of the Russian-Iranian argument before that date.

When the council yesterday voted down his proposal to postpone the matter until April 10, he gathered his papers and his delegation and left the room.

Potomac Light and Power Files New Rate Schedule

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 28 (AP)—The Potomac Light and Power Company filed a new rate schedule with the public service commission today, explaining that the plan would result in a savings of $236,800 annually to its West Virginia custo-mers.

The firm serves Jefferson, Berke-ley, Morgan, Grant, Hampshire, Hardy and Mineral counties, with headquarters in Hagerstown, Md.

In a letter to the commission, D. E. Stultz, vice president, said the reductions would not affect all cus-tomers, but none would face higher charges.

The committee said that the energy produced by these secondary plants would not make explosives. The plants themselves, moreover, would be incapable of being con-verted to bomb factories without extensive reconstruction which would take "two or three years" and which would advertise the illegal activity.

The whole control system would be bolstered by an international force of inspectors. The inspectors would be more than policemen, how-ever. They would be eminent scien-tists who also would give advice on research and operation.

"The city wire, direct from the AP news room in Washington, carries a condensed version of the day's news report, plus-up-to-the-minute listings of press conferences, committee hearings, important gov-ernment releases and other news-worthy events.

Not For Publication

"In wire service jargon, the prime purpose of the city service might be slugged "FYI," for the report is designed solely for the informa-tion of subscribers. It is not for publication or broadcast.

"Emphasis is on Washington news, but top domestic and foreign stories —especially those which may have Washington angles, form a consid-erable part of the report.

"Nothing with a Washington date-line is overlooked—from the weather reports for correspondents who might like to play golf, to the treas-ury report. Two types of service are provided. One runs from 8:30 a. m. to 8:30 p. m. daily except Sunday. The other covers these hours but continues to midnight weekdays and gives eight hours of coverage on Sundays.

Special correspondents are not the only subscribers to this play-by-play report. The AP city wire has found its way into most of the top government departments. Among them are Army, Navy, Justice, In-terior, State, Treasury and UNRRA. Several newspapers are subscribers, too, and Walter Lippmann, the columnist, keeps in touch with the world through a printer in his home.

Lack of New Cars Halts the Law

May-December Marriage Faces Difficult Test

By BERTRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

It's hard to have to sit by and watch some one you love suffer in a situation about which you can do nothing.

You want so much to help. You'd do anything in the world you could to make things easier for this person, caught in a chain of circumstances that seem to be in no way his fault.

Yet you don't know which way to tell him to turn. You're just not able, any more than he is, to figure out the answer.

Here is a sister in such a dilemma, eager to help a troubled brother unravel the tangle that his marriage to a much younger woman has become:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"My brother is a middle-aged man, his wife being fourteen years younger than he is. They have been married about seventeen years.

"For the first few years they had a happy married life, but they are having trouble now. Her sister is married to a man who is a drunkard, and the sister has a daughter who has got my sister-in-law running around with her and her boy friends. One of these boys even asks my sister-in-law for dates and she sometimes accepts. She uses so much make-up, she looks like a wax doll, and spends so much on herself and her clothes that my brother cannot accumulate anything for a home of his own.

"My brother works all day and when he comes home, cooks and cleans the house while she is running around with her niece and her buddies. Then she comes in and starts nagging that this is not done right and that is not done right and says to my brother, 'You don't have a home like anyone else.'

"She takes music and plays at church sometimes, but mostly for a show. But when he wants her to visit his people, she tells him she doesn't want to go because his people are trashy. She also serves liquor to her niece, her drunken brother-in-law and their buddies in her own home against my brother's wish. Her brother-in-law has asked her to leave my brother and make her home with them, and almost persuades her to do so. How can my brother solve this problem?

"WORRIED SISTER"

When a man marries a woman much younger than himself, there is always a strong possibility that trouble will arise sooner or later. This is especially true, of course, where the woman is the very gay, pleasure-loving type. For while she is still at an age when she wants to go out and have lots of good times, he has usually got beyond that, and wants to stay home and enjoy more quiet pleasures. So that unless the wife is so much in love with her husband that she would rather be with him than do anything else, she eventually becomes dissatisfied with the kind of life she finds herself leading and may, as your sister-in-law has done, start running around hunting for the good times she wants.

Perhaps it might be a good idea for your brother to encourage his wife to go live with her sister and her drunken husband for awhile. I'd be willing to bet she'd be right back home again in a short time, with a much greater appreciation of the husband who stays sober and has tried—with little help from her—to make a home for her.

But in any event, tell your brother not to let this little scatter-brain make a doormat of him. I'd suggest that he stop doing the housework and let her know that if she wants him to support her, she'll have to do her part in the home-making. And on his side, perhaps he could think up some places to take her occasionally that would be more exciting for her than visiting his people, although she should, of course, be willing to go with him reasonably often to see his folks.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Just made a trip to my home town Cleveland where I was reared — about three times a day. Home town—that's French for "He may be a movie star to you but we knew him before they slammed the door on his nose."

Cleveland is all decorated for the Susquicentennial—there are signs everywhere saying "150 years old"—and I'm still trying to catch the guy who put them all under my picture.

I was raised on the sidewalks of Cleveland, but then my father found a house.

And there is where I first went on the stage, and they are very proud of the event down at the theater. They have got a plate of glass over the first tomato stain.

I walked through my old neighborhood. I had a lump in my throat; it was the only safe place to carry my wallet.

I lived in a neighborhood where people were poorer than church mice—and you know church mice used to be awful poor—until Crosby made "Going My Way."

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Just made a trip to my home town Cleveland where I was reared — about three times a day. Home town—that's French for "He may be a movie star to you but we knew him before they slammed the door on his nose."

Cleveland is all decorated for the Susquicentennial—there are signs everywhere saying "150 years old"—and I'm still trying to catch the guy who put them all under my picture.

I was raised on the sidewalks of Cleveland, but then my father found a house.

And there is where I first went on the stage, and they are very proud of the event down at the theater. They have got a plate of glass over the first tomato stain.

I walked through my old neighborhood. I had a lump in my throat; it was the only safe place to carry my wallet.

I lived in a neighborhood where people were poorer than church mice—and you know church mice used to be awful poor—until Crosby made "Going My Way."

Mass Tuberculosis Survey Proposed In Local Plants

Plans for a mass tuberculosis survey among Allegany county industrial workers, beginning about July 1, were discussed yesterday by city and state health officials, according to Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, deputy state and county health officer.

Dr. Franklin conferred yesterday morning with Dr. G. Canby Robinson, managing director of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, and Dr. Leroy R. Allen, in charge of tuberculosis control for the state department of health, regarding the proposed program.

The mass survey will be made possible by the use of a portable photo fluoroscopic film machine which will be taken to the Celanese, Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, B. and O. Railroad, West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and any other plants which signify their intention of participating in the program, Dr. Franklin said.

Following conferences with plant and union officials the program will be arranged. The portable fluoroscopic film machine will not be available until July 1. Dr. Franklin said that the machine is not an X-ray, but it does give physicians and technicians a picture of the lungs from which they can determine if the persons examined have tuberculosis. X-rays would be used to check the picture results.

The mass survey could possibly result in the "eradication of the dread disease" in Allegany county among industrial workers, Dr. Robinson stated. He told Dr. Franklin that a check of figures on tuberculosis in Allegany county shows the county has the lowest record in Maryland based on the death rate per thousand persons afflicted with tuberculosis.

Dr. Franklin pointed out that the most dangerous age group for contracting the disease is between 20 and 30 years, and there are thousands of persons in this group employed at local plants.

Donius Held for Action Of State's Attorney

Louis Donius, this city, who was arrested by city police early Tuesday morning following a series of blazes which firemen said were set in the already damaged Hendricks hotel on Laing avenue, is being held in the city jail pending further action by the state's attorney's office.

A number of witnesses were questioned at the state's attorney's office Wednesday and yesterday concerning the fires. Firemen believed matches were used to set five blazes found in four rooms and a hall on the second story of the place late Monday night.

Kiwanis Club Inducts Two New Members

Two new members were inducted into the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at its noon meeting yesterday, Paul G. Stakem and Frank L. Stakem. The induction talk was made by the Rev. Walter M. Michael, a member of the club's Kiwanis education committee.

O. J. Hale, club president, and William J. Edwards, secretary, were elected delegates to the Kiwanis International Convention to be held in Atlantic City, N. J., June 9 to 13 inclusive. George L. Buchanan vice president, and Forest Brown, a past president of the club, were elected alternates to the convention.

Mass Tuberculosis Survey Proposed In Local Plants

Plans for a mass tuberculosis survey among Allegany county industrial workers, beginning about July 1, were discussed yesterday by city and state health officials, according to Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, deputy state and county health officer.

Dr. Franklin conferred yesterday morning with Dr. G. Canby Robinson, managing director of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, and Dr. Leroy R. Allen, in charge of tuberculosis control for the state department of health, regarding the proposed program.

The mass survey will be made possible by the use of a portable photo fluoroscopic film machine which will be taken to the Celanese, Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, B. and O. Railroad, West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and any other plants which signify their intention of participating in the program, Dr. Franklin said.

Following conferences with plant and union officials the program will be arranged. The portable fluoroscopic film machine will not be available until July 1. Dr. Franklin said that the machine is not an X-ray, but it does give physicians and technicians a picture of the lungs from which they can determine if the persons examined have tuberculosis. X-rays would be used to check the picture results.

The mass survey could possibly result in the "eradication of the dread disease" in Allegany county among industrial workers, Dr. Robinson stated. He told Dr. Franklin that a check of figures on tuberculosis in Allegany county shows the county has the lowest record in Maryland based on the death rate per thousand persons afflicted with tuberculosis.

Dr. Franklin pointed out that the most dangerous age group for contracting the disease is between 20 and 30 years, and there are thousands of persons in this group employed at local plants.

Donius Held for Action Of State's Attorney

Louis Donius, this city, who was arrested by city police early Tuesday morning following a series of blazes which firemen said were set in the already damaged Hendricks hotel on Laing avenue, is being held in the city jail pending further action by the state's attorney's office.

A number of witnesses were questioned at the state's attorney's office Wednesday and yesterday concerning the fires. Firemen believed matches were used to set five blazes found in four rooms and a hall on the second story of the place late Monday night.

Kiwanis Club Inducts Two New Members

Two new members were inducted into the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at its noon meeting yesterday, Paul G. Stakem and Frank L. Stakem. The induction talk was made by the Rev. Walter M. Michael, a member of the club's Kiwanis education committee.

O. J. Hale, club president, and William J. Edwards, secretary, were elected delegates to the Kiwanis International Convention to be held in Atlantic City, N. J., June 9 to 13 inclusive. George L. Buchanan vice president, and Forest Brown, a past president of the club, were elected alternates to the convention.

Miss Erica Donovan, director of the Theatergate, guest speaker, outlined plans, etc., for the new project here, and asked the Kiwanians to support the movement.

Jenkins was named to take charge of the assets and make proper distribution among the stockholders. The firm was incorporated January 2, 1922, and now has assets of $21,500 in cash and $2,000 in accounts receivable.

Whisky Shipment Suit Settled Out of Court

Announcement was made yesterday that a settlement out of court has been effected in the suit of Mrs. Elsa L. Lichtenstein, trading as the Lichtenstein Company, against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, on a claim for whisky which was lost in transit. Mrs. Lichtenstein, represented by Charles Z. Heskett, claimed ten cases of Scotch whisky were shipped from New York last August 2 but on arrival only four bottles out of the 120 in the shipment were delivered. The cost of each case was listed at $43.60. The manner in which the liquor disappeared was not revealed.

Members of the Celanese local also heard a report on the opening of negotiations with the Celanese Corporation of America for an eighteen and one-half cents hourly wage boost. The second negotiation session will be held this morning at 9 o'clock at the Celanese plant, Coleman said.

The TWUA local also endorsed the candidacy of Robert B. Kimble for the Republican nomination for state senator. Similar action has been taken by one of the railroad brotherhoods.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Tolerance: "Let no man seek his own, but another's wealth. Consult his neighbor's interest." (Moffat), 1 Corinthians 10-24. Read 1 Corinthians 10:29 to 11.1.

To tolerate meant literally "to bear" and it means that still, being the grace of bearing with other people who are not like us. Mechanics grind a bearing to a "tolerance" of 1-10,000 of an inch, but our human bearings need more play than that. Without tolerance, right human relations become impossible, and just now the already urgent question of tolerance has for many reasons taken on a new significance. St. Paul never used the word but he dealt often and wisely and unexpectedly with this whole matter of tolerance, and he urged one principle over an dover.

Dr. Atkins

"You must not," he said, "in any disputed situation begin by asking others to please and agree with you. Inquire instead and first of all whether you yourself ought to be agreed with. There is often an impossible conceit in asking other people to agree with us, but if we begin by asking, 'am I right and good enough to be tolerated myself?' the heated bearings of our disputes with other people would begin immediately to cool. Tolerance is never condescension. It is the recognition of the fallibilities which we all share together and the humble submission of ourselves and our differences of opinion to the will and the way of God."

Prayer: O thou whose thorne throne is truth and whose statutes are wisdom so help us to search our own hearts that we may not become stumbling blocks to others nor fail to seek their good as well as our own. In his name who pleased not himself. Amen.

LISTEN WORLD

By ELSIE ROBINSON

(Registered U.S. Patent Office)

WHAT DO YOU SEE?

What do you see when you look at the world around you—when you go to new places—when you hear new facts or tackles new problems?

What do you see when you look into the eyes of your friends? Or of strangers?

Do you see the world as it really is? Do you see those friends and strangers as they actually exist?

You do not—unless you are an exceptional person. No matter where you go or what you have or whom you meet, it's a ten to one shot that you see just one object. In each new experience you see—YOURSELF.

You're puzzled. To go through life and just see yourself—what kind of whacky statement is that? It isn't possible. Guess again stranger, It's not only too possible. And here's how.

WE SEE IN EVERY NEW PLACE OR PROBLEM OR PERSON JUST WHAT WE WANT TO SEE. AND MOST OF US WANT TO SEE OURSELVES.

That doesn't mean that we wish to see perfect physical duplicates of our bodies. But we do insist on seeing and judging the outside world from our own personal viewpoint.

You've laughed at the typical tourist who couldn't find anything interesting in Paris, London, Rome, Cairo, Moscow or Shanghai because "it's so different from the way we do things back home." That tourist wasn't trying to see these foreign cities as they really are in their great and dramatic differences. He was trying to see how nearly they conformed to his own pattern. He was trying to find himself. And nine times out of ten we do the same thing with people.

Each person is a new and exciting adventure if we will accept him as such. Instead we're always trying to make others measure up to our own standards and tastes. We're always trying to find OURSELVES in them. If they don't or we can't—we conclude they are somehow lacking.

Why are some lives so rich and varied and stimulating, and others drab as dishwater? That's why. A few rare people will accept and judge new experiences at their own value and profit thereby. For there is enormous profit in all strangeness if we will look for it, whether we approve of it or not. But most of us seek only a tiresome repetition of our own little scheme of things. And are tied to our own apron strings.

That tourist wasn't trying to see these foreign cities as they really are in their great and dramatic differences. He was trying to see how nearly they conformed to his own pattern. He was trying to find himself. And nine times out of ten we do the same thing with people.

Each person is a new and exciting adventure if we will accept him as such. Instead we're always trying to make others measure up to our own standards and tastes. We're always trying to find OURSELVES in them. If they don't or we can't—we conclude they are somehow lacking.

Why are some lives so rich and varied and stimulating, and others drab as dishwater? That's why. A few rare people will accept and judge new experiences at their own value and profit thereby. For there is enormous profit in all strangeness if we will look for it, whether we approve of it or not. But most of us seek only a tiresome repetition of our own little scheme of things. And are tied to our own apron strings.

Philadelphia Champions Eliminate LaSalle, 45-28

Explorers Drop Opener in Newport Tourney; To Face Clarksburg in Consolation Game Today

NEWPORT, R. I., March 28—LaSalle high school, of Philadelphia, champions of Pennsylvania's largest city, proved too strong for LaSalle high school, of Cumberland, as they eliminated the Marylanders from the championship flight of the Eastern States Catholic Invitational basketball tournament here this afternoon by the score of 45 to 28.

The schools were tied at six-all at the end of the first quarter and the Cumberlanders were scoreless for the first six minutes of the second period. Philadelphia LaSalle quickly hit its stride thereafter and ended the half 22-10 to the good. The last half was a rout for Philadelphia despite liberal use of substitutes.

Weglicki Leads Attack

Johnny Weglicki, center, paced the Pennsylvanians with fifteen points while George Geatz, 1943 all-ESCIT player, and Jack Steiner, another veteran, sparked for Cumberland. The pair accounted for ten of the Marylanders' twelve field goals and twenty-three of their team's twenty-eight points.

Regis high school of New York followed the Philadelphia school into the semi-finals with a 57-43 victory over St. Mary's of Clarksburg, W. Va.

The New Yorkers had a definite height advantage over the West Virginia team and went in front 13-9 in the opening minutes of the tourney's second game. At half time Regis was leading 39-22 with Captain Jack Talbot piling up twenty-two points to lead the game's individual scoring.

LaSalle To Play St. Mary's

Cumberland will face St. Mary's, of Clarksburg, in a consolation semi-final tomorrow afternoon. These teams have met twice this season, the West Virginians winning both games by scores of 38-35 in an overtime affair and 46-33.

Fairfield, Conn., Prep, led by the 22-point top scoring of its six feet, three inch center, Matt Forman, defeated DeLaSalle Academy of Newport 44-32 tonight to qualify for the semi-final round.

1945 Champions Win

Johnny Kelley of LaSalle Academy of New York, last year's champion, shot a high score of twenty-nine points, one short of the tournament record of three years ago, as his team smothered St. Phillip's high of Chicago, 62-33.

For their semi-final opponents the New Yorkers will face LaSalle high of Philadelphia. Regis will play Fairfield in the other contest tomorrow.

Ferrier, Little Lead Charlotte Golf Tournament

Post Six-under-Par 66's in Opening Round of $7,500 Event

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 28 (AP)—Lawson Little, former national open and amateur champion from Monterey, Calif., and Jim Ferrier, ex-Australian, now playing out of Chicago, splashed home with six-under-par 66's today to share the lead as the $7,500 Charlotte open golf tournament got under way on a soggy Myers Park Club course.

The two huskies were among the twety-three who broke par despite the daylong sowers which left the 6,410-yard course a series of puddles.

Three 68 shooters were right behind them—Chick Harbert, of Detroit; Pete Cooper, of Gainesville, Fla., and Vic Ghezzi, of Knoxville, Tenn., each coming in four under par. Ghezzi's outgoing 31 and Ferrier's 31 on the way home were the day's best nine-hole scores.

Sam Snead, the favorite from Hot Springs, Va., who is seeking his third straight victory in as many weeks, led the 69 group which included six others.

Still in contention with sub-par scores were five 79 shooters and six with 71 as the field faced 18 holes on each of the next three days.

Major Leaguers Deserting Bases For Tour North

Clubs Still Hope To Make Deals To Cover Vital Deficiencies

By JACK HAND

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 28 (AP)—Baseball's busiest and longest spring training season is nearing its end and most of the big league clubs will have deserted their Florida bases for the long journey home before the next week is out.

The axe will fall on many a rookie's neck in a few days as managers cut their squads to ship talent to the farm clubs.

President John Quinn of the Boston Braves says Manager Billy Southworth plans to cut his squad when the team stops at Lakeland for a weekend series with Detroit. Others are making similar plans.

Hope To Make Deals

Even while they are paring surplus talent, the majors still are hoping to make deals to cover up vital deficiences. Detroit is eager to land a second baseman; Connie Mack is looking for a right fielder; Washington needs a third sacker; the Yankees need pitching talent and so do the Dodgers and the New York Giants. Any time that Owner Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals decides to lop a few names off his payroll, every club in both leagues will be knocking at his door.

Southworth's Braves beat the gun on the other Florida-based teams, leaving for Fort Lauderdale today to stop off at Fort Myers en route to Tampa and Lakeland where they will pick up the Tigers to swing northward together.

The Yankee vagabonds are on the road again. The Bradenton (B) group is here to play the Dodgers two days before hop-scotching through Georgia and the Carolinas for eleven days with the Brooks' (B) squad. Joe McCarthy and the Yank varsity leave tomorrow for New Orleans and Texas points. They meet the Brooklyn regulars, who do not leave Daytona Beach until April 5, and go home together from Nashville April 8.

Mr. Mack's Athletics play their last game at West Palm Beach March 31 and move north with Baltimore for opposition through Brunswick, Ga., Savannah, Greensboro, N. C., and other minor league points.

Giants To Meet Tribe

Cincinnati and the Boston Red Sox leave their respective camps at Tampa and Sarasota April 2 and join for a tour northward. The Giants hook up with their old Cleveland sparring partners at Jacksonville, April 6, and go north together.

The St. Louis Cardinals break camp April 3 and go home via Pensacola, Mobile and Tulsa, facing minor league opposition until they clash with the St. Louis Browns at Sportsman's Park. Ben Chapman keeps his Philadelphia Phillies at Miami Beach until April 6 and then goes north with Washington which doesn't play its last game at the Orlando base until April 7.

Moose Tossers Drill, 22 Candidates Report

Twenty-two candidates for the Loyal Order of Moose baseball team of the Interstate and City leagues answered the initial call for practice yesterday at Allegany field, according to Carl E. Cooke, manager.

Manager of the F. O. Eagles, champions of the Interstate League of 1932, Cooke returns in the role of pilot of the Moose team after having been out of baseball since 1933 when he managed Ridgeley.

League Will Meet

Officers will be elected at a meeting of the Ridgeley Softball League on Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the Ridgeley city hall. Managers of all teams are urged to attend.

New York Tracks Will Use Telefilm Patrol for Races

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—The five New York race tracks will use the Telefilm Patrol this season as an "insurance of stringent control of the sport," track officials announced today.

The Telefilm Patrol is a method by which every foot of each race is filmed during the running and the film is developed, dried and ready for inspection by the stewards seven minutes after the horses have crossed the finish line. The method was used during the past winter in California racing.

The system helps officials decide on foul riding tactics and gives closer inspection of the complete running of each race. The film is taken from six pylons with special camera platforms erected at intervals around the track, with each camera filming a portion of the race.

Kelley Memorial Award Goes to Robert Dorsey

Winner Receives Watch; Hartman and Newcome Honored; 250 Attend Dinner in Keyser

KEYSER, W. Va., March 28.—Robert Dorsey, senior, who played as a regular on the Keyser high school football and basketball teams, received the Sgt. J. Edward Kelley memorial athletic award at the first annual dinner sponsored tonight by Keyser Lodge No. 662, Loyal Order of Moose, in St. Mary's hall.

The annual affair, instituted to perpetuate the memory of Staff Sgt. J. Edward Kelley, former Keyser high and Potomac State school athlete, who won the Congressional Medal of Honor at the cost of his life in Germany in 1945, was attended by 250 persons.

Winner Given Watch

Dorsey was the recipient of a Hamilton gold pocket watch, the presentation having been made by John Koniszewski, former George Washington university football player, who played a tackle position with the Washington Redskins last season after having served as a lieutenant with the United States Marines in the Pacific war theater. Koniszewski also presented miniature gold basketballs to Arthur Hartman and Hal "Doc" Newcome, the other Keyser high school nominees for the award. Hartman recently completed his third season on the Golden Tornado basketball team while Newcome has played football and basketball for the past two years.

Principal speaker on the occasion was Leonard P. Walsh, former football star at the University of Minnesota and president of the Washington, D. C. Touchdown Club. Walsh told his audience that he was not particularly interested in outstanding athletes but he did take a special interest in boys who fought their way to the top after a hard struggle. He stressed the fact that not one but all boys on a team are important and stated that "the boys in this group may be out All-Americans of tomorrow."

Dr. Samuel Koplovitz, chairman of the committee in charge of the event, opened the program by introducing Dean K. S. McKee, of Potomac State school, who took over as master of ceremonies. Mr. Walsh was introduced by J. Leighton Cornwell, special assistant to United States Attorney General Tom Clark. Cornwell was form director of athletics at DeWilt school in Washington, D. C.

Morris Speaks for Moose

J. T. Morris, district governor, and member of Keyser Lodge No. 662, spoke in behalf of the local Moose lodge. Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State school, memorialized Sgt. Kelley after which the hero's father, Jonah E. Kelley was introduced.

The Rev. J. C. B. McLaughlin pronounced the invocation and the Rev. Father Rizer offered the benediction.

The award will be made annually to the Keyser high school athlete who has shown the highest degree of athletic ability and sportsmanship during the school term. The winner is chosen by a group of judges.

Senators Will Carry 28; Torres, Guerra Join Club

ORLANDO, Fla., March 28 (AP)—Twenty-eight players will be carried by the Washington Senators this season and Gil Coan and Ray Goolsby, rookie outfielders, will be among those retained, Owner Clark Griffith said today.

Cubans Gil Torres, infielder, and Mike Guerra, catcher, have joined the club. Torres recently was reported jumping to the Mexican league but decided to stay with the Senators as utility man.

Philadelphia Champions Eliminate LaSalle, 45-28

Explorers Drop Opener in Newport Tourney; To Face Clarksburg in Consolation Game Today

NEWPORT, R. I., March 28—LaSalle high school, of Philadelphia, champions of Pennsylvania's largest city, proved too strong for LaSalle high school, of Cumberland, as they eliminated the Marylanders from the championship flight of the Eastern States Catholic Invitational basketball tournament here this afternoon by the score of 45 to 28.

The schools were tied at six-all at the end of the first quarter and the Cumberlanders were scoreless for the first six minutes of the second period. Philadelphia LaSalle quickly hit its stride thereafter and ended the half 22-10 to the good. The last half was a rout for Philadelphia despite liberal use of substitutes.

Weglicki Leads Attack

Johnny Weglicki, center, paced the Pennsylvanians with fifteen points while George Geatz, 1943 all-ESCIT player, and Jack Steiner, another veteran, sparked for Cumberland. The pair accounted for ten of the Marylanders' twelve field goals and twenty-three of their team's twenty-eight points.

Regis high school of New York followed the Philadelphia school into the semi-finals with a 57-43 victory over St. Mary's of Clarksburg, W. Va.

The New Yorkers had a definite height advantage over the West Virginia team and went in front 13-0 in the opening minutes of the tourney's second game. At half time Regis was leading 39-22 with Captain Jack Talbot piling up twenty-two points to lead the game's individual scoring.

LaSalle To Play St. Mary's

Cumberland will face St. Mary's, of Clarksburg, in a consolation semi-final tomorrow afternoon. These teams have met twice this season, the West Virginians winning both games by scores of 38-35 in an overtime affair and 46-33.

Fairfield, Conn., Prep, led by the 22-point top scoring of its six feet, three inch center, Matt Forman, defeated DeLaSalle Academy of Newport 44-32 tonight to qualify for the semi-final round.

1945 Champions Win

Johnny Kelley of LaSalle Academy of New York, last year's champion, shot a high score of twenty-nine points, one short of the tournament record of three years ago, as his team smothered St. Phillip's high of Chicago, 62-33.

For their semi-final opponents the New Yorkers will face LaSalle high of Philadelphia. Regis will play Fairfield in the other contest tomorrow.

Ferrier, Little Lead Charlotte Golf Tournament

Post Six-under-Par 66's in Opening Round of $7,500 Event

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 28 (AP)—Lawson Little, former national open and amateur champion from Monterey, Calif., and Jim Ferrier, ex-Australian, now playing out of Chicago, splashed home with six-under-par 66's today to share the lead as the $7,500 Charlotte open golf tournament got under way on a soggy Myers Park Club course.

The two huskies were among the twety-three who broke par despite the daylong sowers which left the 6,410-yard course a series of puddles.

Three 68 shooters were right behind them—Chick Harbert, of Detroit; Pete Cooper, of Gainesville, Fla., and Vic Ghezzi, of Knoxville, Tenn., each coming in four under par. Ghezzi's outgoing 31 and Ferrier's 31 on the way home were the day's best nine-hole scores.

Sam Snead, the favorite from Hot Springs, Va., who is seeking his third straight victory in as many weeks, led the 69 group which included six others.

Still in contention with sub-par scores were five 79 shooters and six with 71 as the field faced 18 holes on each of the next three days.

Major Leaguers Deserting Bases For Tour North

By JACK HAND

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 28 (AP)—Baseball's busiest and longest spring training season is nearing its end and most of the big league clubs will have deserted their Florida bases for the long journey home before the next week is out.

The axe will fall on many a rookie's neck in a few days as managers cut their squads to ship talent to the farm clubs.

Hope To Make Deals

Even while they are paring surplus talent, the majors still are hoping to make deals to cover up vital deficiences. Detroit is eager to land a second baseman; Connie Mack is looking for a right fielder; Washington needs a third sacker; the Yankees need pitching talent and so do the Dodgers and the New York Giants. Any time that Owner Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals decides to lop a few names off his payroll, every club in both leagues will be knocking at his door.

Southworth's Braves beat the gun on the other Florida-based teams, leaving for Fort Lauderdale today to stop off at Fort Myers en route to Tampa and Lakeland where they will pick up the Tigers to swing northward together.

The Yankee vagabonds are on the road again. The Bradenton (B) group is here to play the Dodgers two days before hop-scotching through Georgia and the Carolinas for eleven days with the Brooks' (B) squad. Joe McCarthy and the Yank varsity leave tomorrow for New Orleans and Texas points. They meet the Brooklyn regulars, who do not leave Daytona Beach until April 5, and go home together from Nashville April 8.

Mr. Mack's Athletics play their last game at West Palm Beach March 31 and move north with Baltimore for opposition through Brunswick, Ga., Savannah, Greensboro, N. C., and other minor league points.

Giants To Meet Tribe

Cincinnati and the Boston Red Sox leave their respective camps at Tampa and Sarasota April 2 and join for a tour northward. The Giants hook up with their old Cleveland sparring partners at Jacksonville, April 6, and go north together.

The St. Louis Cardinals break camp April 3 and go home via Pensacola, Mobile and Tulsa, facing minor league opposition until they clash with the St. Louis Browns at Sportsman's Park. Ben Chapman keeps his Philadelphia Phillies at Miami Beach until April 6 and then goes north with Washington which doesn't play its last game at the Orlando base until April 7.

Moose Tossers Drill, 22 Candidates Report

Twenty-two candidates for the Loyal Order of Moose baseball team of the Interstate and City leagues answered the initial call for practice yesterday at Allegany field, according to Carl E. Cooke, manager.

Manager of the F. O. Eagles, champions of the Interstate League of 1932, Cooke returns in the role of pilot of the Moose team after having been out of baseball since 1933 when he managed Ridgeley.

League Will Meet

Officers will be elected at a meeting of the Ridgeley Softball League on Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the Ridgeley city hall. Managers of all teams are urged to attend.

New York Tracks Will Use Telefilm Patrol for Races

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—The five New York race tracks will use the Telefilm Patrol this season as an "insurance of stringent control of the sport," track officials announced today.

The Telefilm Patrol is a method by which every foot of each race is filmed during the running and the film is developed, dried and ready for inspection by the stewards seven minutes after the horses have crossed the finish line. The method was used during the past winter in California racing.

Kelley Memorial Award Goes to Robert Dorsey

Winner Receives Watch; Hartman and Newcome Honored; 250 Attend Dinner in Keyser

KEYSER, W. Va., March 28.—Robert Dorsey, senior, who played as a regular on the Keyser high school football and basketball teams, received the Sgt. J. Edward Kelley memorial athletic award at the first annual dinner sponsored tonight by Keyser Lodge No. 662, Loyal Order of Moose, in St. Mary's hall.

The annual affair, instituted to perpetuate the memory of Staff Sgt. J. Edward Kelley, former Keyser high and Potomac State school athlete, who won the Congressional Medal of Honor at the cost of his life in Germany in 1945, was attended by 250 persons.

Winner Given Watch

Dorsey was the recipient of a Hamilton gold pocket watch, the presentation having been made by John Koniszewski, former George Washington university football player, who played a tackle position with the Washington Redskins last season after having served as a lieutenant with the United States Marines in the Pacific war theater. Koniszewski also presented miniature gold basketballs to Arthur Hartman and Hal "Doc" Newcome, the other Keyser high school nominees for the award. Hartman recently completed his third season on the Golden Tornado basketball team while Newcome has played football and basketball for the past two years.

Principal speaker on the occasion was Leonard P. Walsh, former football star at the University of Minnesota and president of the Washington, D. C. Touchdown Club. Walsh told his audience that he was not particularly interested in outstanding athletes but he did take a special interest in boys who fought their way to the top after a hard struggle. He stressed the fact that not one but all boys on a team are important and stated that "the boys in this group may be out All-Americans of tomorrow."

Dr. Samuel Koplovitz, chairman of the committee in charge of the event, opened the program by introducing Dean K. S. McKee, of Potomac State school, who took over as master of ceremonies. Mr. Walsh was introduced by J. Leighton Cornwell, special assistant to United States Attorney General Tom Clark. Cornwell was form director of athletics at DeWilt school in Washington, D. C.

Morris Speaks for Moose

J. T. Morris, district governor, and member of Keyser Lodge No. 662, spoke in behalf of the local Moose lodge. Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State school, memorialized Sgt. Kelley after which the hero's father, Jonah E. Kelley was introduced.

The Rev. J. C. B. McLaughlin pronounced the invocation and the Rev. Father Rizer offered the benediction.

The award will be made annually to the Keyser high school athlete who has shown the highest degree of athletic ability and sportsmanship during the school term. The winner is chosen by a group of judges.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 28 (AP)—Twenty-eight players will be carried by the Washington Senators this season and Gil Coan and Ray Goolsby, rookie outfielders, will be among those retained, Owner Clark Griffith said today.

Cubans Gil Torres, infielder, and Mike Guerra, catcher, have joined the club. Torres recently was reported jumping to the Mexican league but decided to stay with the Senators as utility man.

Graziano Reigns Slight Favorite In Non-Title Go

19,000 Will See Marty Servo Test Knockout Artist Tonight

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs has sold every available ticket for tomorrow night's 10-round non-title fight between Welterweight Champion Marty Servo and Rocky Graziano in Madison Square Garden but nevertheless is a sad man.

Assured of 19,000 spectators and receipts of $175,000, Jacobs is positive the bout would have drawn a half-million had he waited until mid-May and arranged it for one of the ball parks.

There's never been a battle between two little men in the Garden hitting high finance like this one. Only twice before has a Garden gate gone over that figure. And on both those occasions, heavyweights were the attraction—in 1927 when Jack Delaney and Jim Maloney drew $201,000 and in 1942, when Joe Louis and Buddy Baer played to $189,000 for the Navy Emergency Relief. For the pintsized swatters, tops was the $148,000 Beau Jack and Johnny Greco registered earlier this season.

What's more, this fuss figures to be an artistic success. The gambling gentlemen see Graziano as only a 5 to 6 favorite, in spite of the two ether cans he uses for fists and a weight pull of up to ten pounds he'll be sporting.

Elmer Ray Will Fight For New Boxing Group

MIAMI, Fla., March 28. (AP)—Elmer "Violent" Ray, Florida Negro heavyweight contender, will do his fighting under the banner of Boxing Promoters, Inc., Max Waxman, secretary-treasurer of the corporation said today.

Eagles Sign Buckeye

GOBBLERS NAME COACH

BLACKSBURG, Va.—(AP)—George S. (Gummy) Proctor, Virginia Tech basketball coach, is the new Gobbler baseball mentor, succeeding Flake (Red) Laird, who has been appointed football backfield coach at Tech.

"Chick" Fullis, 45, Former Major, Minor League Star, Dies

ASHLAND, Pa., March 28 (AP)—Charle T. "Chick" Fullis, who played in the outfield of the 1934 World Champion St. Louis Cardinals, died of a complication of diseases today at the age of 45.

Fullis, a native of Girardsville, Ohio, broke into professional baseball in 1924 with Frederick, (Md) of the Blue Ridge League. He later played with the New York Phillies and the Cardinals.

Fullis got into the 1934 series when Ducky Medwick was injured by a thrown pop bottle and saw action in three of the series contests.

Buckeye Mermen Loom as Best Bet In NCAA Contests

150 Swimmers from 32 Schools To Compete in Yale Pool

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 28—(AP)—With the first splash hours away, experts here for the two-day NCAA swimming meet wasted no adjectives in proclaiming Ohio State's powerful Big Ten champs an overwhelming favorite to dominate this twenty-third annual college classic.

Little Halo Hirose, strapping Jack Hill, Miller Anderson, and tall, lean Jim Counsilman, could easily bring the Buckeyes nine of the eleven titles to be awarded in the competition which opens in Yale's plushy pool tomorrow and concludes late Saturday night.

Thirty two colleges and universities, represented by more than 150 of the nation's leading swimmers, comprise the entries for the first postwar NCAA swim and promise to restore it to its pre-Pearl Harbor glitter. Entered are Bowdoin, Brown, Canisius, Columbia, Cornell, Colgate, Connecticut, Dartmouth, Harvard, LaSalle (Philadelphia), Massachusetts State, Rutgers, Temple, Trinity, United States Military and Naval Academies, Westchester, Pa., Teachers, Williams, Yale, Cincinnati, Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, Michigan State, Minnesota, Purdue, Wayne, North Carolina, Virginia, Texas, Stanford and Ohio State, of course.

Phils' First Sacker Enters Johns Hopkins

MIAMI BEACH, Fla, March 28 (AP)—First Baseman Frank McCormick of the Philadelphia Phils, whose lame back has not responded to treatment as rapidly as hoped, was flown to Johns Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore today, Herb Pennock, Phils' general manager, announced.

McCormick had trouble with his back all last season while with Cincinnati. He has had difficulty taking a full swing at bat. He will be examined by Dr. George Bennett, Johns Hopkins bone specialist. Manager Ben Chapman is using Jimmy Wasdell at first base during McCormick's absence.

Graziano Reigns Slight Favorite In Non-Title Go

19,000 Will See Marty Servo Test Knockout Artist Tonight

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs has sold every available ticket for tomorrow night's 10-round non-title fight between Welterweight Champion Marty Servo and Rocky Graziano in Madison Square Garden but nevertheless is a sad man.

Assured of 19,000 spectators and receipts of $175,000, Jacobs is positive the bout would have drawn a half-million had he waited until mid-May and arranged it for one of the ball parks.

There's never been a battle between two little men in the Garden hitting high finance like this one. Only twice before has a Garden gate gone over that figure. And on both those occasions, heavyweights were the attraction—in 1927 when Jack Delaney and Jim Maloney drew $201,000 and in 1942, when Joe Louis and Buddy Baer played to $189,000 for the Navy Emergency Relief. For the pintsized swatters, tops was the $148,000 Beau Jack and Johnny Greco registered earlier this season.

What's more, this fuss figures to be an artistic success. The gambling gentlemen see Graziano as only a 5 to 6 favorite, in spite of the two ether cans he uses for fists and a weight pull of up to ten pounds he'll be sporting.

Rocky usually needs plenty of swinging room for his high hard one, and, in this respect, baby-faced Marty from Schenectady, N. Y., is most unobliging.

Elmer Ray Will Fight For New Boxing Group

MIAMI, Fla., March 28. (AP)—Elmer "Violent" Ray, Florida Negro heavyweight contender, will do his fighting under the banner of Boxing Promoters, Inc., Max Waxman, secretary-treasurer of the corporation said today.

The new promoter group, headed by Jack Dempsey, has announced its intentions of "breaking open Mike Jacob's monopoly" on boxing.

Eagles Sign Buckeye

GOBBLERS NAME COACH

BLACKSBURG, Va.—(AP)—George S. (Gummy) Proctor, Virginia Tech basketball coach, is the new Gobbler baseball mentor, succeeding Flake (Red) Laird, who has been appointed football backfield coach at Tech.

"Chick" Fullis, 45, Former Major, Minor League Star, Dies

ASHLAND, Pa., March 28 (AP)—Charle T. "Chick" Fullis, who played in the outfield of the 1934 World Champion St. Louis Cardinals, died of a complication of diseases today at the age of 45.

Fullis, a native of Girardsville, Ohio, broke into professional baseball in 1924 with Frederick, (Md) of the Blue Ridge League. He later played with the New York Phillies and the Cardinals.

Fullis got into the 1934 series when Ducky Medwick was injured by a thrown pop bottle and saw action in three of the series contests.

Buckeye Mermen Loom as Best Bet In NCAA Contests

150 Swimmers from 32 Schools To Compete in Yale Pool

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 28—(AP)—With the first splash hours away, experts here for the two-day NCAA swimming meet wasted no adjectives in proclaiming Ohio State's powerful Big Ten champs an overwhelming favorite to dominate this twenty-third annual college classic.

Little Halo Hirose, strapping Jack Hill, Miller Anderson, and tall, lean Jim Counsilman, could easily bring the Buckeyes nine of the eleven titles to be awarded in the competition which opens in Yale's plushy pool tomorrow and concludes late Saturday night.

Thirty two colleges and universities, represented by more than 150 of the nation's leading swimmers, comprise the entries for the first postwar NCAA swim and promise to restore it to its pre-Pearl Harbor glitter. Entered are Bowdoin, Brown, Canisius, Columbia, Cornell, Colgate, Connecticut, Dartmouth, Harvard, LaSalle (Philadelphia), Massachusetts State, Rutgers, Temple, Trinity, United States Military and Naval Academies, Westchester, Pa., Teachers, Williams, Yale, Cincinnati, Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, Michigan State, Minnesota, Purdue, Wayne, North Carolina, Virginia, Texas, Stanford and Ohio State, of course.

Phils' First Sacker Enters Johns Hopkins

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 28 (AP)—First Baseman Frank McCormick of the Philadelphia Phils, whose lame back has not responded to treatment as rapidly as hoped, was flown to Johns Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore today, Herb Pennock, Phils' general manager, announced.

McCormick had trouble with his back all last season while with Cincinnati. He has had difficulty taking a full swing at bat. He will be examined by Dr. George Bennett, Johns Hopkins bone specialist. Manager Ben Chapman is using Jimmy Wasdell at first base during McCormick's absence.

Radio Chain Lists Musical Comedy In Episode Form

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—The Friday night schedule of MBS at 8 will present in episode form a musical comedy written primarily for the microphone. It is called "Passport to Romance."

The cast includes the principals Mitzi Green and Larry Brooks There as just about as much plot as there is music.

The ABC sports section, at the usual time of 10, is to concentrate on the welterweight boxing of Marty Servo and Rocky Graziano. Although Servo is the new champion, it is a non-title bout.

Jean Hersholt, radio's Dr. Christian, will drop around for Danny Kaye's CBS show at 10. . .Because Al Pearce and his gang will be enroute from Hollywood to New York his 3 p. m. time on ABC will be turned into a Chicago produced swing show, with Marian Frances as vocalist. Pearce will be back on the air Monday. . . .The MBS Spotlight bands at 9:30 wind up the army camp series with a broadcast from Roswell army air base in New Mexico. The band will be that of Ray Herbeck instead of the previously announced Ted Fiorito.

As scheduled and announced by MBS, Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, is to be interview guest of "Meet the Press" at 10:30. He is to be questioned on "Pertinent Issues of the Day" by a panel of four newspapermen.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz is to speak from Washington in connection with a Great Lakes program at 7:15 marking the separation of the two-millionth sailor from the navy.

Radio Chain Lists Musical Comedy In Episode Form

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—The Friday night schedule of MBS at 8 will present in episode form a musical comedy written primarily for the microphone. It is called "Passport to Romance."

The cast includes the principals Mitzi Green and Larry Brooks There as just about as much plot as there is music.

The ABC sports section, at the usual time of 10, is to concentrate on the welterweight boxing of Marty Servo and Rocky Graziano. Although Servo is the new champion, it is a non-title bout.

Jean Hersholt, radio's Dr. Christian, will drop around for Danny Kaye's CBS show at 10. . .Because Al Pearce and his gang will be enroute from Hollywood to New York his 3 p. m. time on ABC will be turned into a Chicago produced swing show, with Marian Frances as vocalist. Pearce will be back on the air Monday. . . .The MBS Spotlight bands at 9:30 wind up the army camp series with a broadcast from Roswell army air base in New Mexico. The band will be that of Ray Herbeck instead of the previously announced Ted Fiorito.

As scheduled and announced by MBS, Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, is to be interview guest of "Meet the Press" at 10:30. He is to be questioned on "Pertinent Issues of the Day" by a panel of four newspapermen.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz is to speak from Washington in connection with a Great Lakes program at 7:15 marking the separation of the two-millionth sailor from the navy.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Wife and Mother, who passed away 4 years ago today, March 29, 1942.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent the voice we loved to hear,
Sad but true, we wonder why
Our hearts cry out in pain,
We'd love to have you with us again,
The days are sad without her,
Nothing will ever be the same,
For she has gone and left a loneliness
In our hearts by day and by night.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Wife and Mother, who passed away 4 years ago today, March 29, 1942.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent the voice we loved to hear,
Sad but true, we wonder why
The best are always the first to die.
Our hearts cry out in pain,
We'd love to have you with us again,
The days are sad without her,
Nothing will ever be the same,
For she has gone and left a loneliness
In our hearts by day and by night.

CLARENCE F. FRALEY

Kelly Wage Talks Continue; Workers Remain on Strike

Company Believes Some Progress Is Made at Negotiation Meeting

Although wage negotiations between Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company are continuing, there were no moves yesterday to halt the authorized but uncalled strike which halted operations at the local tire plant Wednesday evening.

The union negotiating committee met yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock for a scheduled wage negotiation and Ralph C. Beard, president of the local, said the union committee is scheduled for another meeting this afternoon at 1 o'clock. The union official declined comment on the progress made at the session.

Will Meet Sunday

The union's executive board met last evening in the union hall but union officials said there was nothing to report on the session.

Beard reported late last evening the union is still planning to hold a membership meeting Sunday afternoon but said the place of the meeting has not been arranged.

Union officials said there has been no back to work movement and Beard was quoted yesterday as saying he did not see how production could be resumed before Monday.

Company officials said they believed some progress was made in yesterday's meeting and added they looked for even more progress this afternoon.

Continue Negotiations

A company official said there has been no sign of a breakdown in any stage of the negotiations.

Union officials did not give a reason for the walkout which started in the tube making room at 5 p. m. and quickly gained momentum. All work had halted by 9 p. m.

The union and the company have been negotiating a request for an eighteen and one-half cents hourly increase. The union membership voted to authorize a strike after rejecting a company proposal for an eight-cent increase.

TEACHER TO RETIRE—O. B. Boughton, science teacher at Fort Hill high school, has announced that he will retire in April thereby completing fifty-one years as a teacher, all of them in Allegany county schools. When Mr. Boughton started teaching in 1895, teachers received salaries of $262.50 a year. Mr. Boughton is known and admired by thousands of his former pupils and he is also respected and admired by the members of his profession for his prudent although sometimes militant leadership of the Teachers Association since 1912 a period of thirty-three years. Above, he is shown in his classroom at Fort Hill high. When he retires to his home in Narrows Park he hopes to "get outdoors and do some walking." (See Story).

O. B. Boughton, Veteran County Teacher, Will Retire in April

Fort Hill High School Science Instructor Taught 51 Years

By JAMES B. CRAIG

Thousands of citizens in this locality who attended classes under him will have a personal interest when they read today that O. B. Boughton, veteran Allegany county teacher, will retire in April after fifty-one years in the teaching profession—all of them spent in Allegany county schools.

Teachers in the county will hear of his announcement with regret as they not only regard Mr. Boughton as a capable, conscientious teacher but also honor him for his militant advocacy of necessary reforms as a leader in the Teachers Association for thirty-six years.

When Mr. Boughton accepted his first principalship in the two-room school at Parkersburg near Eckhart in 1895, Grover Cleveland was president of the United States. The teacher, Mr. Boughton recalls, sat on the raised platform customary in that period. The two front benches in the schoolroom were called "recitation benches" and the various classes filed from their desks to recite the fundamental subjects taught in those days.

Taught Dr. Gracie

"Dr. William A. Gracie was one of my first pupils," Mr. Boughton recalled last night. "He was quite good in science and mathematics, I recall. No, I won't single out any other students I've had since then. I mention Dr. Gracie only because he was the first. But I have had hundreds of men and women who have been outstanding citizens and given valuable service to their respective communities. And I find that I remember them quite well, although I remember the faces better than the names in some cases. I'm often been stopped on the street and asked by some former student if I remember him and if I don't remember his name I generally remember the face."

One of the earliest developments of great significance in the schools was when the late Governor Lowndes gave Maryland school children free books, Mr. Boughton said.

"That was Mr. Tasker Lowndes's father and what he did was a great boon to the schools," the teacher said.

Mr. Boughton, a native of Frostburg, also recalled how his father, William G. Boughton, held an umbrella over Governor Lowndes's head the day he laid the cornerstone at Frostburg State Teachers' college.

"It was a scorching hot day," Mr. Boughton said. "My father was a trustee at Beall high school and it was felt that it was fitting to hold an umbrella over the governor's head in view of the heat as he had a long address to make."

Received $262.50 Yearly

When Mr. Boughton first started teaching school, teachers were paid $262.50 a year. He recalled last night that "we were paid only at the end of every eleven weeks which, if the practice were still continued, would mean that this year I wouldn't have received any salary from June until near Thanksgiving week.

"As a result all teachers had to run bills, and lengthy ones," Mr. Boughton said. "Do you know Judge Sloan? Well, his father, James M. Sloan, finally introduced and had enacted a bill to pay teachers monthly. And it was opposed by the then county superintendent on the grounds that it would be too much work, as he had to do all the office work himself and had no assistants of any sort."

Another fact Mr. Boughton recalled out of the past was, that he was the first principal to abolish corporal punishment in his school. Mr. Boughton recalled that Arthur F. Smith, of Lonaconing, now retired, was sued because he had punished a student and there was something of a rumpus over it. However, pupils were punished as needed up until 1913, Mr. Boughton said.

Former pupils of Mr. Boughton will be interested in the list of the schools he has been connected with since 1895. They are:

3—Vale Summit, 1898-1899.

5—Grahamtown, Mt. Savage—1907-1908.

Taught in Parkersburg

Mr. Boughton said he recalled his first school at Parkersburg quite vividly since it was a good school with "industrious pupils" and also he attached some sentiment to the fact that the school was named after his grandfather's family and the town after his grandmother's grandmother.

Asked if he would care to comment on present day methods compared to former methods, Mr. Boughton said that teachers, on the whole, are better prepared today academically and in technique of methods but the zeal and devotion of teachers in the past to further best possible interests of school children met the requirements of successful living.

Commenting on the wider diversification of subject matter demanded today by the general public, Mr. Boughton said, "You can't plough so deep over a wide field."

A child can only absorb so much, he said, and therefore emphasis should be placed on fundamental requirements. The larger the field, the less the emphasis on fundamentals, he commented.

Asked if young people of today are better educated than formerly, Mr. Boughton replied, "More go to college—about 100 to one, I would say."

Told that wasn't exactly what the reporter meant, Mr. Boughton replied "Well, when it comes to the capability to think I do not believe we have any Washingtons, Jeffersons, Lincolns, Shakespeares or Homers today and I'm afraid if our constitution had to be written today it wouldn't be written with as much wisdom or prudence."

Many Distractions Today

Pupils today have many distractions from the business of studying, Mr. Boughton said. While he did not condemn radios, movies and other related things he did say that, in some cases, they "keep pupils from studying and away from mental exertions and mental tasks."

From the first, Mr. Boughton was a leader in the Teachers association and he has served Allegany county teachers in various capacities since 1912 when the association was founded. Mr. Boughton gives much of the credit for organizing the association to Arthur F. Smith, who became a president of the organization. Positions held by Mr. Boughton include: president three years, 1917, 1918, 1925; vice president three years, 1903, 1904, 1916; treasurer four years, 1912, 1913, 1914, 1915, member of the Legislative committee for twenty-five years, twenty-two of which have been as chairman; Joseph H. Griffin is the sixth member of the committee.

The five members, who previously announced their support of Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor in the senatorial primary, were Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., chairman; Thomas E. Stakem, John P. Schelhaus, Charles F. Burke, Jr., and Bernard Hughes.

Charles A. Piper Named Director Of PE Company

President's Annual Report Shows Increased Expenses and Revenue

John J. McMullen and Owen E. Hitchins, Cumberland, and Rep. J. Glenn Beall, Frostburg, were re-elected directors.

R. Paul Smith, president, in submitting his annual report to the stockholders, said operating and maintenance expenses increased twelve and one-tenth per cent in 1945, while operating revenues from all departments increased only five and seven-tenths per cent.

Reflects Higher Wages

Increased operating and maintenance expenses reflected higher wages and salaries and higher costs of materials, particularly coal, which increased thirty cents a ton during the year, Smith reported.

He said taxes accrued in 1945 were more than for any previous year and equalled thirty-one per cent of total operating revenues. Contributing to increases in revenues, expenses and taxes, he added, was the inclusion in operations of four Virginia companies acquired in 1945. Plans now are being made to merge three of the companies with the Northern Virginian Power Company, Potomac Edison Virginia subsidiary.

Revenues from city bus and interurban bus service increased although the rate of increase lessened after the end of the war, according to the report, which pointed out that there was a decrease in street railway service revenues largely because of reduced operations of the army's salvage segregation center at Frederick.

516 Miles of Rural Lines

In 1945 the company constructed 516 miles of rural lines as compared with 180 miles in 1944, Smith stated, adding that at the end of the year the company and subsidiaries had many applications for electric service in rural areas.

Regular quarterly dividends on the six and seven per cent preferred stocks, and dividends amounting to $5 a share on common stock were paid during 1945, Smith reported. He also explained the stock refinancing plan that was consummated February 1.

Of the more than 300 employes that were in the armed forces, ninety per cent of those discharged have returned to work with the company.

Three Area Youths Are Sworn into Marine Corps

Three youths of the Cumberland area have been sworn into the marine corps at Baltimore, each for two years' service, according to Staff Sgt. Murrel W. Brainerd, local marine corps recruiter.

One of the youths, Charles Arden Simms, Jr., 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Simms, 24 Browning street, was released recently from the Merchant Marine academy, Sheepshead Bay, N. Y., as a midshipman.

The others are Ralph Melvin Scarlett, Jr., 18, son of Mrs. Bertha Mae Scarlett, 421 Henderson avenue; and Jack Lee Densock, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Densock, Cresaptown. Densock enlisted for duty in marine aviation.

Sgt. Brainerd said Maj. K. B. Pickle, Baltimore, officer in charge of marine recruiting in Maryland, will visit the local office today on an inspection tour.

Local News in Brief

Mayor Thomas S. Post and the city council will hold a special meeting tomorrow at 10 a. m. in Mayor Post's office to pass the payroll.

Telephone service was restored yesterday morning to between 800 and 900 phones on the West Side when Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company workmen repaired a hole found in a cable in a conduit beneath Baltimore street. E. H. Bender, plant wire chief, said the hole might have been made more than a year ago when a crew was working near the cable.

New Press Association Work Is Explained in Magazine Article

Miss Veronica Kompanek Writes Story for Editor and Publisher

Miss Veronica Kompanek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Kompanek, 511 Pearre avenue, a former Cumberland News reporter, wrote an article which appeared in Editor and Publisher, a newspaper magazine, last week, explaining a new special service operated in Washington for reporters by Press Association, a subsidiary of the Associated Press.

Miss Kompanek, a graduate of Allegany high school and Western Maryland college, taught school at Bruce high, Westernport, and Allegany high here, before joining the staff of the Cumberland News. For the past few years she has been with the Associated Press, working in the Baltimore and New York offices before being transferred to her present position in Washington.

"The nation's seat of government has also become the news capital of the nation. Washington—meaning the government—is getting bigger and bigger every day, more complicated and harder to cover.

Can't Cover Everything

"No one knows this fact better than the hundreds of special correspondents for newspapers and radio in Washington. They would need the physical equipment of a centipede for the leg work necessary to cover every source of news in Washington.

"Most of these correspondents make no attempt to cover the great output of spot news. They hit the high spots, and let the regular news services provide general coverage.

"Their reports deal largely with special stories of interest to their own clients; policy stories and how legislataion and government decisions affect their own communities.

"Their big problem is how to know what is going on that should have their special attention. They do not require detail. What they want is to be told, before it happens if possible, where to look for news.

Subscribers Double

"It was with this need in mind that Press Association, Inc., a subsidiary of the Associated Press, established its newest service—a news report and tip service prepared especially for Washington. In less than six months the new service has doubled the number of its subscribers. It has come to be known in Washington as "city editor of the nation."

"Imagine any single correspondent, or any single group of correspondents, for that matter, trying to cover 30 important congressional committee hearings all scheduled for 10 a. m.—this in addition to news conferences and bales of official releases. The very idea is enough to make a correspondent yearn for his old beat on the main stem.

13,000 Acres of Land Unfit for Cultivation Would Be Planted

Planting of 13,000,000 trees on 13,000 acres of land in Allegany county that is either too steep, too rough or too badly eroded for cultivated crops, hay or pasture, is on the soil conservation program for the Allegany Soil Conservation district, W. W. Nace, soil conservationist, said yesterday.

Also included on the program, Nace said, is the planting of five and a half million wildlife shrubs, protection of woodlands from grazing, improvement of 25,000 acres of pasture, strip cropping 22,000 acres and building 245 miles of diversion terraces.

While this is a big job, the program likewise calls for other practices such as use of winter cover crops, construction of farm ponds, draining wet fields, planting hay on steep slopes, and stabilizing stream banks, Nace stated.

Shrubs Hold Back Soil

In addition to the forest trees, shrubs are needed to hold back soil and water and are planted along woodland borders, stream banks, odd corners, as contour hedges, along rock out-croppings and other sites unproductive for cultivated crops, according to Nace.

He added that 50,000 acres of woodland in the county are in need of protection from cattle grazing, and estimated that farmers can improve about 20,000 acres of pasture land through liming, fertilizing, mowing, clearing brush and eliminating over-grazing. Another 5,000 acres of land, it is estimated, should be planted in pasture through seeding.

Intercept Water

The 245 miles of diversion terraces needed are used to intercept water that accumulates on higher ground. This water is led into woods and waterways where it can do no harm and cuts down on the danger of sheet erosion.

Contour strip cropping likewise helps prevent sheet erosion inasmuch as the crop rows act as little dams and the alternate strips of hay slow up the downhill rush of water.

New City Fathers Are Silent on Resolution Regarding Keegan

Councilman-elect William V. Keegan, Mayor Thomas S. Post and other members of the newly elected city council, which will take office Monday, had no comment to make yesterday regarding a resolution opposing Keegan's possible appointment as police and fire commissioner.

The resolution was passed unanimously at a meeting Monday of the Cumberland Methodist Ministers' Wives Association.

Mayor Post, Commissioner William J. Edwards and Commissioner-elect Clifton E. Fuller made no comments. It was not possible to contact Commissioner-elect Myers G. Light.

"War Bride" Train To Stop Here Tonight

A "War Bride" train carrying English war brides and their children to homes in America, will stop in Cumberland for five minutes at 7:42 p. m. today, but none of the brides have this city as their destination, Matthew W. Grove, division passenger agent of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, said last night.

The train, consisting of fourteen, sleeping cars and two B. and O. diners will leave the B. and O. Jersey City terminal this morning. Five sleepers will be switched out of the special train near Washington and be attached to a regular westbound B. and O. train. The remaining cars of the special train will come through Cumberland bound for the west.

Members of Lay Health Groups Plan Observance

"Know Your Public Health Nurse" Week To Open April 7

Preliminary plans for local observance of "Know Your Public Health Nurse" week, to be marked throughout the nation from April 7 to 13, were discussed yesterday afternoon at a meeting of representatives of various community health committees, according to Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, deputy state and county health officer.

Thirteen women, representing committees in Flintstone, Oldtown, Cresaptown, Zihlman and Cumberland which promote public health measures, attended the meeting.

Miss Margaret Morrissey, state public health nurse for the Cresaptown district, was named liaison worker to co-ordinate arrangements made by the committees and the county health department in regard to promoting observance of the week.

"Open House" Planned

Plans were made to hold "open house" at the county health department offices on the second floor of the Public Safety building from Monday, April 8, through Friday, April 12, from 1 to 5 p. m. each day.

A public health nurse will be on duty at those times to explain to interested persons the duties of public health nurses, and to answer questions regarding their work. The public is invited to attend the "open house" sessions.

Another feature of the observance will be a window display in Rosenbaum Brothers department store April 6 to 10, which will include posters and illustrations of the scope of public health nursing in Allegany county.

Miss Morrissey and the committees will arrange for the distribution of public health nursing posters in post office, schools and other places in the county during the week.

Lay Council Proposed

Although the primary purpose of yesterday's meeting was to plan for the observance, Dr. Franklin said that other meetings of health committee members are planned toward the formation of an integrated county lay health council.

He explained that at the present time, each group is working as a separate unit to promote public health measures in respective communities adding that it is hoped to draw the groups into one overall organization to improve health standards throughout the county.

There are health committees in Cresaptown, Frostburg, Zihlman, Lonaconing, Mt. Savage, Westernport, Bowman's addition, Cumberland, Flintstone and Oldtown. All those communities have health centers with the exception of the last two, but plans are being made to open a center in Oldtown.

The county organization would work through the state committee of the lay section of the Maryland Organization for Public Health Nursing. Five persons of this section are already members of the state organization. They are Miss Anne Sloan, Lonaconing; Mrs. David Sigel and Mrs. Milton Beneman, this city; J. Wesley Sleeman, Frostburg; and Mrs. Harry Barton, Cresaptown.

Another meeting for health committee members and all interested persons will be held Thursday, April 4, at 1:30 p. m. at the Public Safety building.

Miss Marion L. Weber, supervisor of public health nurses in Allegany county, was in charge of yesterday's meeting.

Three Building Permits Granted by Engineer

Charles Paul Roeder, 609 Piedmont avenue, secured a permit to build a $6,000 two-story residence on Lots 9, 10 and 11, Ashland avenue. The structure, to measure 46 by 30 feet, will have a concrete foundation, frame walls veneered with stone, and a slate roof.

A permit was granted to Paul A. Butts, 810 Memorial avenue, to build a two-story house, estimated at $5,700, on Lot 7, Memorial avenue. The structure, which will measure 22 by 32 feet long, will have a concrete foundation, brick walls and a composition roof. The permit was secured for Butts by Commissioner William E. McDonald.

Roy Henley, owner of Peter Pan Cleaners, was granted a permit to build a new boiler room within the present cleaning plant at 536 North Centre street, at an estimated cost of $1,500. The permit stipulated that firewalls and a fireproof roof must be provided to conform with the building code. Work will be done by the John I. Vandegrift Company. Edgar Vandegrift applied for the permit.

Ryan May Enter Race For Attorney General

It was reported here yesterday that Edward J. Ryan, Frostburg, who maintains law offices in Cumberland and Frostburg, has been asked by a group of Baltimore Democrats, to accept a place on the "Tawes ticket" as a Democratic candidate for attorney general of Maryland.

Contacted by telephone, at his office here yesterday, Ryan refused to confirm or deny the report, that he had been asked to run with Tawes who is a candidate for governor, but added that he is giving "serious consideration" to the matter of announcing as a candidate for attorney general on the Democratic ticket.

John H. Grady Is Seriously Hurt In Auto Crash

Wrecked Car Is Reported Stolen Half Hour after Accident

A former serviceman, John Henry Grady, 24, Long, was in a serious condition in Allegany hospital early today with a possible fracture of the skull and other injuries suffered when the car he was operating snapped off a telephone pole and crashed against a tree in front of 636 North Centre street.

Police said Grady was still unconscious at midnight and added they were told the former Company G member also suffered cuts about the face and a nose injury.

Car Was Speeding

Police said the accident occurred at 10:30 p. m. as the car was speeding up the street without lights. Detective Thomas J. See, who was following the vehicle, said the car ran up on the right curb at Brooklyn place, snapped off the telephone pole near the ground and crashed against a tree. Part of the hood of the car was thrown about fifty feet by the impact, police added.

Police said the door of the 1936 Ford sedan flew open in the crash and that the injured man driving alone, was thrown almost clear of the vehicle. He was taken to the hospital in a local ambulance.

The vehicle, bearing New Hampshire license plates No. 39,388, is owned by Miss Gail Edwards, B street, LaVale, police said. Miss Edwards, at 11 p. m. went to police headquarters and reported the car was stolen from where it was parked in front of the Walsh and McCagh pharmacy.

Was Investigating Case

Detective See, less than an hour before, investigated a report that a man had stolen a Queen City Dairy delivery truck which was abandoned on Howard street after it crashed against a garage and a fence.

Police said the local Legion post had asked them early last evening to locate Grady so that he might be sent to a Veterans hospital.

Fort Hill Seniors To Give Comedy At School Tonight

"Stage Door," Kaufman and Ferber Play, Will Be Presented

Tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the Fort Hill auditorium, the senior class presents the Kaufman and Ferber three-act comedy, "Stage Door," under the direction of Miss Gerardine Pritchard.

A special setting, arranged by Mrs. Arthur Schliefman and the regular stage crew, was constructed by James Gorman and the vocational shop senior boys. The back drop pas painted by Miss Lola Burrall and the art department.

"Stage Door" tells the interwoven stories of Terry Randall, Kaye Hamilton, Jean Maitland, and Louise Mitchell—all girls who are boarding at the Footlights club, a New York home for girls with theatrical aspirations. Kelly Wage Talks Continue; Workers Remain on Strike

Although wage negotiations between Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company are continuing, there were no moves yesterday to halt the authorized but uncalled strike which halted operations at the local tire plant Wednesday evening.

The union negotiating committee met yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock for a scheduled wage negotiation and Ralph C. Beard, president of the local, said the union committee is scheduled for another meeting this afternoon at 1 o'clock. The union official declined comment on the progress made at the session.

Will Meet Sunday

The union's executive board met last evening in the union hall but union officials said there was nothing to report on the session.

Beard reported late last evening the union is still planning to hold a membership meeting Sunday afternoon but said the place of the meeting has not been arranged.

Union officials said there has been no back to work movement and Beard was quoted yesterday as saying he did not see how production could be resumed before Monday.

Union officials commented the walkout was complete, saying "everyone is out."

Company officials said they believed some progress was made in yesterday's meeting and added they looked for even more progress this afternoon.

Continue Negotiations

A company official said there has been no sign of a breakdown in any stage of the negotiations.

Union officials did not give a reason for the walkout which started in the tube making room at 5 p. m. and quickly gained momentum. All work had halted by 9 p. m.

The union and the company have been negotiating a request for an eighteen and one-half cents hourly increase. The union membership voted to authorize a strike after rejecting a company proposal for an eight-cent increase.

TEACHER TO RETIRE—O. B. Boughton, science teacher at Fort Hill high school, has announced that he will retire in April thereby completing fifty-one years as a teacher, all of them in Allegany county schools. When Mr. Boughton started teaching in 1895, teachers received salaries of $262.50 a year. Mr. Boughton is known and admired by thousands of his former pupils and he is also respected and admired by the members of his profession for his prudent although sometimes militant leadership of the Teachers Association since 1912 a period of thirty-three years. Above, he is shown in his classroom at Fort Hill high. When he retires to his home in Narrows Park he hopes to "get outdoors and do some walking." (See Story).

O. B. Boughton, Veteran County Teacher, Will Retire in April

Fort Hill High School Science Instructor Taught 51 Years

By JAMES B. CRAIG

Thousands of citizens in this locality who attended classes under him will have a personal interest when they read today that O. B. Boughton, veteran Allegany county teacher, will retire in April after fifty-one years in the teaching profession—all of them spent in Allegany county schools.

Teachers in the county will hear of his announcement with regret as they not only regard Mr. Boughton as a capable, conscientious teacher but also honor him for his militant advocacy of necessary reforms as a leader in the Teachers Association for thirty-six years.

When Mr. Boughton accepted his first principalship in the two-room school at Parkersburg near Eckhart in 1895, Grover Cleveland was president of the United States. The teacher, Mr. Boughton recalls, sat on the raised platform customary in that period. The two front benches in the schoolroom were called "recitation benches" and the various classes filed from their desks to recite the fundamental subjects taught in those days.

Taught Dr. Gracie

"Dr. William A. Gracie was one of my first pupils," Mr. Boughton recalled last night. "He was quite good in science and mathematics, I recall. No, I won't single out any other students I've had since then. I mention Dr. Gracie only because he was the first. But I have had hundreds of men and women who have been outstanding citizens and given valuable service to their respective communities. And I find that I remember them quite well, although I remember the faces better than the names in some cases. I'm often been stopped on the street and asked by some former student if I remember him and if I don't remember his name I generally remember the face."

One of the earliest developments of great significance in the schools was when the late Governor Lowndes gave Maryland school children free books, Mr. Boughton said.

"That was Mr. Tasker Lowndes's father and what he did was a great boon to the schools," the teacher said.

Mr. Boughton, a native of Frostburg, also recalled how his father, William G. Boughton, held an umbrella over Governor Lowndes's head the day he laid the cornerstone at Frostburg State Teachers' college.

"It was a scorching hot day," Mr. Boughton said. "My father was a trustee at Beall high school and it was felt that it was fitting to hold an umbrella over the governor's head in view of the heat as he had a long address to make."

Received $262.50 Yearly

When Mr. Boughton first started teaching school, teachers were paid $262.50 a year. He recalled last night that "we were paid only at the end of every eleven weeks which, if the practice were still continued, would mean that this year I wouldn't have received any salary from June until near Thanksgiving week.

"As a result all teachers had to run bills, and lengthy ones," Mr. Boughton said. "Do you know Judge Sloan? Well, his father, James M. Sloan, finally introduced and had enacted a bill to pay teachers monthly. And it was opposed by the then county superintendent on the grounds that it would be too much work, as he had to do all the office work himself and had no assistants of any sort."

Another fact Mr. Boughton recalled out of the past was, that he was the first principal to abolish corporal punishment in his school. Mr. Boughton recalled that Arthur F. Smith, of Lonaconing, now retired, was sued because he had punished a student and there was something of a rumpus over it. However, pupils were punished as needed up until 1913, Mr. Boughton said.

Former pupils of Mr. Boughton will be interested in the list of the schools he has been connected with since 1895. They are:

1—Parkersburg, (near Eckhart) 1895-1897.

3—Vale Summit, 1898-1899.

5—Grahamtown, Mt. Savage—1907-1908.

6—Assistant superintendent of schools—1908-1912.

9—Pennsylvania high school—vice principal—1927-1936.

Taught in Parkersburg

Mr. Boughton said he recalled his first school at Parkersburg quite vividly since it was a good school with "industrious pupils" and also he attached some sentiment to the fact that the school was named after his grandfather's family and the town after his grandmother's grandmother.

Asked if he would care to comment on present day methods compared to former methods, Mr. Boughton said that teachers, on the whole, are better prepared today academically and in technique of methods but the zeal and devotion of teachers in the past to further best possible interests of school children met the requirements of successful living.

Commenting on the wider diversification of subject matter demanded today by the general public, Mr. Boughton said, "You can't plough so deep over a wide field."

A child can only absorb so much, he said, and therefore emphasis should be placed on fundamental requirements. The larger the field, the less the emphasis on fundamentals, he commented.

Asked if young people of today are better educated than formerly, Mr. Boughton replied, "More go to college—about 100 to one, I would say."

Told that wasn't exactly what the reporter meant, Mr. Boughton replied "Well, when it comes to the capability to think I do not believe we have any Washingtons, Jeffersons, Lincolns, Shakespeares or Homers today and I'm afraid if our constitution had to be written today it wouldn't be written with as much wisdom or prudence."

Many Distractions Today

Pupils today have many distractions from the business of studying, Mr. Boughton said. While he did not condemn radios, movies and other related things he did say that, in some cases, they "keep pupils from studying and away from mental exertions and mental tasks."

From the first, Mr. Boughton was a leader in the Teachers association and he has served Allegany county teachers in various capacities since 1912 when the association was founded. Mr. Boughton gives much of the credit for organizing the association to Arthur F. Smith, who became a president of the organization. Positions held by Mr. Boughton include: president three years, 1917, 1918, 1925; vice president three years, 1903, 1904, 1916; treasurer four years, 1912, 1913, 1914, 1915, member of the Legislative committee for twenty-five years, twenty-two of which have been as chairman;

Charles A. Piper Named Director Of PE Company

President's Annual Report Shows Increased Expenses and Revenue

John J. McMullen and Owen E. Hitchins, Cumberland, and Rep. J. Glenn Beall, Frostburg, were re-elected directors.

R. Paul Smith, president, in submitting his annual report to the stockholders, said operating and maintenance expenses increased twelve and one-tenth per cent in 1945, while operating revenues from all departments increased only five and seven-tenths per cent.

Reflects Higher Wages

Increased operating and maintenance expenses reflected higher wages and salaries and higher costs of materials, particularly coal, which increased thirty cents a ton during the year, Smith reported.

He said taxes accrued in 1945 were more than for any previous year and equalled thirty-one per cent of total operating revenues. Contributing to increases in revenues, expenses and taxes, he added, was the inclusion in operations of four Virginia companies acquired in 1945. Plans now are being made to merge three of the companies with the Northern Virginian Power Company, Potomac Edison Virginia subsidiary.

Revenues from city bus and interurban bus service increased although the rate of increase lessened after the end of the war, according to the report, which pointed out that there was a decrease in street railway service revenues largely because of reduced operations of the army's salvage segregation center at Frederick.

516 Miles of Rural Lines

In 1945 the company constructed 516 miles of rural lines as compared with 180 miles in 1944, Smith stated, adding that at the end of the year the company and subsidiaries had many applications for electric service in rural areas.

Regular quarterly dividends on the six and seven per cent preferred stocks, and dividends amounting to $5 a share on common stock were paid during 1945, Smith reported. He also explained the stock refinancing plan that was consummated February 1.

Of the more than 300 employes that were in the armed forces, ninety per cent of those discharged have returned to work with the company.

13,000 Acres of Land Unfit for Cultivation Would Be Planted

Planting of 13,000,000 trees on 13,000 acres of land in Allegany county that is either too steep, too rough or too badly eroded for cultivated crops, hay or pasture, is on the soil conservation program for the Allegany Soil Conservation district, W. W. Nace, soil conservationist, said yesterday.

Also included on the program, Nace said, is the planting of five and a half million wildlife shrubs, protection of woodlands from grazing, improvement of 25,000 acres of pasture, strip cropping 22,000 acres and building 245 miles of diversion terraces.

While this is a big job, the program likewise calls for other practices such as use of winter cover crops, construction of farm ponds, draining wet fields, planting hay on steep slopes, and stabilizing stream banks, Nace stated.

Shrubs Hold Back Soil

In addition to the forest trees, shrubs are needed to hold back soil and water and are planted along woodland borders, stream banks, odd corners, as contour hedges, along rock out-croppings and other sites unproductive for cultivated crops, according to Nace.

He added that 50,000 acres of woodland in the county are in need of protection from cattle grazing, and estimated that farmers can improve about 20,000 acres of pasture land through liming, fertilizing, mowing, clearing brush and eliminating over-grazing. Another 5,000 acres of land, it is estimated, should be planted in pasture through seeding.

Intercept Water

The 245 miles of diversion terraces needed are used to intercept water that accumulates on higher ground. This water is led into woods and waterways where it can do no harm and cuts down on the danger of sheet erosion.

Contour strip cropping likewise helps prevent sheet erosion inasmuch as the crop rows act as little dams and the alternate strips of hay slow up the downhill rush of water.

New City Fathers Are Silent on Resolution Regarding Keegan

Councilman-elect William V. Keegan, Mayor Thomas S. Post and other members of the newly elected city council, which will take office Monday, had no comment to make yesterday regarding a resolution opposing Keegan's possible appointment as police and fire commissioner.

The resolution was passed unanimously at a meeting Monday of the Cumberland Methodist Ministers' Wives Association.

Keegan was contacted in Newport, R. I., where his LaSalle high school basketball team is participating in a tournament.

Mayor Post, Commissioner William J. Edwards and Commissioner-elect Clifton E. Fuller made no comments. It was not possible to contact Commissioner-elect Myers G. Light.

New Press Association Work Is Explained in Magazine Article

Miss Veronica Kompanek Writes Story for Editor and Publisher

Miss Veronica Kompanek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Kompanek, 511 Pearre avenue, a former Cumberland News reporter, wrote an article which appeared in Editor and Publisher, a newspaper magazine, last week, explaining a new special service operated in Washington for reporters by Press Association, a subsidiary of the Associated Press.

Miss Kompanek, a graduate of Allegany high school and Western Maryland college, taught school at Bruce high, Westernport, and Allegany high here, before joining the staff of the Cumberland News. For the past few years she has been with the Associated Press, working in the Baltimore and New York offices before being transferred to her present position in Washington.

The story which appeared in Editor and Publisher is as follows:

"The nation's seat of government has also become the news capital of the nation. Washington—meaning the government—is getting bigger and bigger every day, more complicated and harder to cover.

Can't Cover Everything

"No one knows this fact better than the hundreds of special correspondents for newspapers and radio in Washington. They would need the physical equipment of a centipede for the leg work necessary to cover every source of news in Washington.

"Most of these correspondents make no attempt to cover the great output of spot news. They hit the high spots, and let the regular news services provide general coverage.

"Their reports deal largely with special stories of interest to their own clients; policy stories and how legislataion and government decisions affect their own communities.

"Their big problem is how to know what is going on that should have their special attention. They do not require detail. What they want is to be told, before it happens if possible, where to look for news.

Subscribers Double

"It was with this need in mind that Press Association, Inc., a subsidiary of the Associated Press, established its newest service—a news report and tip service prepared especially for Washington. In less than six months the new service has doubled the number of its subscribers. It has come to be known in Washington as "city editor of the nation."

"Imagine any single correspondent, or any single group of correspondents, for that matter, trying to cover 30 important congressional committee hearings all scheduled for 10 a. m.—this in addition to news conferences and bales of official releases. The very idea is enough to make a correspondent yearn for his old beat on the main stem.

"But now their teletypes keep them abreast of what's going on in Washington; and in the rest of the world, too. This special Washington

"Know Your Public Health Nurse" Week To Open April 7

Preliminary plans for local observance of "Know Your Public Health Nurse" week, to be marked throughout the nation from April 7 to 13, were discussed yesterday afternoon at a meeting of representatives of various community health committees, according to Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, deputy state and county health officer.

Thirteen women, representing committees in Flintstone, Oldtown, Cresaptown, Zihlman and Cumberland which promote public health measures, attended the meeting.

Miss Margaret Morrissey, state public health nurse for the Cresaptown district, was named liaison worker to co-ordinate arrangements made by the committees and the county health department in regard to promoting observance of the week.

"Open House" Planned

Plans were made to hold "open house" at the county health department offices on the second floor of the Public Safety building from Monday, April 8, through Friday, April 12, from 1 to 5 p. m. each day.

A public health nurse will be on duty at those times to explain to interested persons the duties of public health nurses, and to answer questions regarding their work. The public is invited to attend the "open house" sessions.

Another feature of the observance will be a window display in Rosenbaum Brothers department store April 6 to 10, which will include posters and illustrations of the scope of public health nursing in Allegany county.

Miss Morrissey and the committees will arrange for the distribution of public health nursing posters in post office, schools and other places in the county during the week.

Lay Council Proposed

Although the primary purpose of yesterday's meeting was to plan for the observance, Dr. Franklin said that other meetings of health committee members are planned toward the formation of an integrated county lay health council.

He explained that at the present time, each group is working as a separate unit to promote public health measures in respective communities adding that it is hoped to draw the groups into one overall organization to improve health standards throughout the county.

There are health committees in Cresaptown, Frostburg, Zihlman, Lonaconing, Mt. Savage, Westernport, Bowman's addition, Cumberland, Flintstone and Oldtown. All those communities have health centers with the exception of the last two, but plans are being made to open a center in Oldtown.

The county organization would work through the state committee of the lay section of the Maryland Organization for Public Health Nursing. Five persons of this section are already members of the state organization. They are Miss Anne Sloan, Lonaconing; Mrs. David Sigel and Mrs. Milton Beneman, this city; J. Wesley Sleeman, Frostburg; and Mrs. Harry Barton, Cresaptown.

Another meeting for health committee members and all interested persons will be held Thursday, April 4, at 1:30 p. m. at the Public Safety building.

Miss Marion L. Weber, supervisor of public health nurses in Allegany county, was in charge of yesterday's meeting.

The structure, which will measure 22 by 32 feet long, will have a concrete foundation, brick walls and a composition roof. The permit was secured for Butts by Commissioner William E. McDonald.

Roy Henley, owner of Peter Pan Cleaners, was granted a permit to build a new boiler room within the present cleaning plant at 536 North Centre street, at an estimated cost of $1,500. The permit stipulated that firewalls and a fireproof roof must be provided to conform with the building code. Work will be done by the John I. Vandegrift Company. Edgar Vandegrift applied for the permit.
